TREACHER'S
PHŒNIX BRAND,
HIGHLAND MALT WHISKEY.

THIS genuine Malt Spirit was for many years imported direct by a few Gentlemen of Bombay for their own Consumption, and attained a very considerable private reputation. The suggestion was made to Treacher & Co., Ld., that they should give this Whiskey a trial, and importations were then made. Its introduction into the Indian Market was attended with the most favourable results, it being very highly spoken of by everyone. It has continued to grow in favour, and is now regularly supplied to a large number of Clubs, Messes, and Private Consumers. Treacher's Highland Malt Whiskey is the sole production of a very old Distillery in the Highlands, which confines itself entirely to the distillation of this fine Spirit. Before being bottled, it is allowed to mature in Wood for some years until it has acquired an agreeable odour, and a delicious, full mellow flavour much appreciated by Connoisseurs.

NOTE.—Purchasers of Treacher's Highland Malt Whiskey should observe that each Label and Capsule contains both the Company's Trade Mark, and the Words "Phœnix Brand" stamped thereon.

Cash Price, Rs. 27; Credit, Rs. 30 per doz.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

SUSPICIOUS CASE OF POISONING.—A strange case of what appears to be poisoning came to light on Wednesday. It appears that that evening a report was made to Inspector Greyhurst, that two female Mahomedan pilgrims, named Gastari, and Rajbeebee, and a young boy named Shahajadakan, were lying unconscious in a Moosafferkhana in Pakhmoda Street. They were promptly removed to the J. J. Hospital, where after regaining consciousness, Gastari stated that a Mahomedan woman named Ameerun had given her sweetmeat. She ate a portion of it, and handed the rest to Rajbeebee and the boy, when all three became sick and unconscious. The Inspector forwarded the sweetmeat to Dr. Barry, Chemical Analyser to Government for analysis. The two women can assign no reason for Ameerun trying to poison them.

THEFT BY A BILL-COLLECTOR.—Narayen Bhickajee, a bill-collector, employed by Messrs. Dunnett and Company, was yesterday charged before Mr. C. F. Cooper, at the Esplanade Police Courts, by Constable Ellis, with criminal breach of trust in respect of a sum of Rs. 278. Mr. Harry Hugget, manager of the firm, identified the accused, and gave evidence of the prisoner not accounting for the money. It was also shown that two bills of Rs. 13-11 and Rs. 24 on the accounts of Messrs. Smetham and Wright had been duly paid to the accused, who did not pay it to his employers. Narayen, it would appear, had been an old servant to the firm during a period of fourteen years, and was recommended for mercy. The Magistrate took his character into consideration, and passed the lenient sentence of three months with rigorous imprisonment.

BORROWED PLUMES.—Kisson Dhondoo, who had suffered three previous convictions was, yesterday, brought up at the Esplanade Police Courts, before Mr. Cooper, and charged with the theft of regimental clothes belonging to Bugle Major William Allsop, Sergt. Bartlett, and Bandsman John Rose, of the Kings Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, stationed at Colaba. The complainants deposed to missing their clothing and seeing them on the person of the prisoner who was arrested by the police near a well on the Esplanade, and was found wearing a pair of ammunition boots. Kisson pleaded guilty to the charges, and admitted his previous convictions. The Magistrate in sentencing him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year reminded him that if he appeared again before him for a similar offence he would commit him for trial at the High Court, where, in the event of conviction he would receive a sentence of seven years.

HOW PEDRO COOKED HIS MISTRESS'S FOOD.—At the Esplanade Police Courts yesterday, before Mr. C. P. Cooper, Chief Presidency Magistrate, Inspector Wilson charged Pedro Anthone Fernandez, with criminal breach of trust of copper vessels. Mrs. Bella Frankel appeared as one complainant, and spoke to the prisoner being in her service as cook for four months up till the 18th instant. Complainant was a resident of Grant's Building, where a neighbour informed her that the accused was utilising her utensils for cooking complainant's food. The prisoner was given in police custody, and the articles were found deposited with a Marwaree, who appeared in evidence and testified to Pedro pawning them with him. Another complainant appeared in the person of Phillip Mendonca who claimed the sixth piece which the cook had received from him and pledged with the some money-lender. The Magistrate convicted Pedro, who pleaded guilty, and sentenced him to undergo six weeks' imprisonment with hard labour.

A HOUSE-BREAKER'S ADVENTURES.—At the Girgaum Police Court yesterday, a Hindu, named Gunput Balaram, was charged with having, on the 29th September 1888, stolen gold and silver ornaments, worth about Rs. 263, the property of a woman, named Chundri, residing at Cammateepoora 5th lane. On the morning of the 29th of September 1888 the prosecutrix and her husband locked the door of their room and went to their work in a mill. During their absence the accused broke into the place, forced open a box and extracted the ornaments. The goldsmith afterwards went to Bhosawal, where he was arrested on suspicion while trying to dispose of the ornaments. Inspector Hiscocks on enquiry, ascertained where the ornaments were stolen from, and on the 4th of March 1888 brought the articles before the Magistrate, and informed him that the accused could nowhere be found. After going from place to place Gunput returned to Bombay a few days ago, thinking, no doubt, all was forgotten and that he was safe. Information was given to Mr. Hiscocks, who on Wednesday afternoon arrested the accused. The Magistrate convicted the accused and sentenced him to a term of rigorous imprisonment for one year.

HIS EXCELLENCY the Governor's Council, for the purpose of making laws and regulations, meets at the Council Hall, Secretariat, this afternoon at 3-30.

THE Commissioner of Salt and Abkari notifies not less than ninety appointments in yesterday's Government Gazette. These are rendered necessary by the lapse of the Goa treaty.

THE Rev. C. E. C. de Coetlogon, M.A., has been appointed a chaplain on probation on the Bombay Ecclesiastical Establishment, and is to officiate as Chaplain at Ghorepuri and the Poona Camp-of-Exercise.

MR. T. B. KIRKHAM, Educational Inspector, Central Division, has been granted privilege leave for two months.

INSOLVENT DEBTORS' COURT.

THE Hon. Mr. Justice Bayley presided at a sitting of the Court yesterday, when the following among other matters were heard.

RE SHAPURJEE RUSTOMJEE ADENWALLA.

Mr. Visajee, for a creditor, moved for an adjournment of the hearing of the rule nisi granted in the case, on the ground that the insolvent and his wife were evading service of the notice. His lordship granted a month's adjournment.

RE COOVERDAS MOHUNDAS.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, for the Official Assignee, applied for a week's postponement on the ground that certain documents had not been received from Karrachee, and also as it was desired to examine certain witnesses who had been evading service of notice.

Mr. Manker, for the insolvent, said that one of the witnesses was present and ready to be examined.

Mr. Kirkpatrick said that as he understood certain fraudulent assignments had been made by the insolvent, he was not prepared to examine the witness until the Karrachee documents were produced.

His lordship granted an adjournment until the 27th inst.

RE RAJABALI SABJALI KHOJA.

On the application of Mr. Manker, the insolvent was granted leave to withdraw his petition.

RE MANEKJEE PESTONJEE.

On the application of Mr. Ardasir Kapadia, his lordship extended the insolvent's interim order for two months on the ground of illness.

RE MOWJEE KESHEW.

Mr. Dhairyavan, for the insolvent, moved for an interim order on the ground that his client, who had twice been prosecuted, but acquitted in the Police Court, was now again proceeded against in the Small Causes Court at the instance of his sister.

Mr. Manker, for a creditor, opposed the application, pointing out that the insolvent had not deposited his account books with the Official Assignee.

His lordship rejected the application.

RE DHURUMSEY PURSHOTUM KUTCHRA.

On the application of Mr. Dhairyavan, the insolvent was granted leave to amend his schedule and to serve notices.

RE ARDASIR OOKERJEE.

Mr. Manker, on behalf of the insolvent, applied for leave to amend the schedule and to serve notices.

His lordship, referring to the schedule, pointed out that insolvent, who was employed as a clerk on a salary of Rs. 310 per mensem, had incurred liabilities amounting to over Rs. 7,500, and had no assets.

Mr. Manker explained that his client had stood security for another clerk in the same office. His lordship granted the application.

RE ARDASIR BHIMJEEBHOY BILLIMORIA.

Mr. Dhairyavan, for the insolvent, moved for an interim order.

Mr. Jardine (for Mr. Starling) for an opposing creditor, pointed out that the insolvent had concealed his account books. He was a share broker, who had been before the Court on three previous occasions, and could not, therefore, plead ignorance in regard to the required production of his account books.

His lordship thought that insolvent had kept back certain documents, and his application was, therefore, refused.

RE BABAJEE JEEVUN JOWKAY.

On the application of Mr. Manker the insolvent was granted leave to file a fresh petition.

RE HAJEE ABDULLA GAJRANI.

On the application of the same learned counsel a similar application was granted in this matter.

RE NARONJEE DYASHUNKER BHUTT.

Mr. Manker, for the insolvent, applied for an interim order. His lordship, being informed that insolvent had not deposited any account books with the Official Assignee, refused the application.

RE WILLIAM MORRIS.

On the application of Mr. Manker, the insolvent was granted the usual rule nisi for a discharge.

RE SORABJEE DOSABHOY AND ANOTHER.

On the application of Mr. Manker, the insolvents were granted leave to amend their schedule.

RE BHOWANEE MAHADEO JOSHI.

This insolvent was also given leave, on the application of Mr. Manker, to amend his schedule and to serve notices.

RE DAMJEE SHEWJEE.

Mr. Manker applied for an extension of the insolvent's interim order for three months on the ground that he was proceeding with a suit against a debtor in another court. His lordship granted the application.

DISCHARGES.

The undermentioned insolvents were granted their discharges:—Hormusjee Dorabjee; Dhunjeebhoy Framjee; Fakirjee Pallonjee Fitter; Pandu Raghoba; Pestonjee Dhunjeebhoy Surti; Mahomed Cassum; Tatia Thanajee; Gunput Arjoon; Visram Dossa and another; Babajee Bhikseett; and Dewjee Ayeetwar.

GENERAL BOOTH IN BOMBAY.

ON Wednesday, General Booth was as busy as on previous days,—in private interviews with gentlemen and in delivering lectures. In the morning he was interviewed at the General Assembly Institute. Kalbadevi Road, by Khan Bahadur Muncherjee Cawasjee Murzban, Messrs. Rahimtoola Mahomed Sayani and Dajee Abajee Khare. Later on in the morning, the General, accompanied by Mr. Cawasjee Merwanjee Shroff, paid a visit to the Bai Shakerbai Dinshaw Petit Animal Hospital, at Parel. In the afternoon, the General, accompanied by Mr. Sorabjee Framjee Patell, visited the Victoria Technical Institute, at Byculla. Later on in the after noon the General delivered an address in the pandal, on the Esplanade, before a European and native audience, which only partly filled the pandal on "True Religion of Humanity." Before commencing the service the General, in referring to the sad and untimely death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, said that it had not been foreseen that the lamentable death, for which they were all mourning that day, was to have come upon them. The service that afternoon he would have to conduct as a mourning service, and he would then take the opportunity of speaking some words of sympathy towards the Royal Family and offering prayer on their behalf in their sad and terrible bereavment. However, as it was felt that in keeping faith with the many friends, and in keeping faith with the public, the public arrangements, which were arranged and notified beforehand, should not be set aside, he would, according to the programme, try to address the meeting on the subject of "True Religion of Humanity," which the ladies and gentlemen present had a right to demand. After a short prayer had been offered General Booth proceeded with his address on the subject of "True Religion of Humanity" and, in doing so, he remarked that he generally addressed the assemblies on the subjects which he was thoroughly familiar with, and which he had thorough knowledge of, but this time the programme and the texts of the speech to be delivered on his Indian tour were prepared without his knowledge before he arrived in India. He wished that, instead of the texts, the sermons would have been prepared for him and the texts left to himself. (Laughter). He was so very busy since he arrived here that he had no time to gather his ideas on the subject, but still he would endeavour, as far as lay in his power, to explain to his audience what "True Religion of Humanity" was. By "True Religion of Humanity" it was meant what sort of a religion humanity demanded. There was religion in every community and every nation; but they differed from one another. Some travellers had said that there was no religion amongst some of the savage tribes and nations; but as most of the travellers, being ignorant of the language and customs of those tribes, were not in a position to be able to give a correct account of them, as they but lived only a few days amongst them. There being religion in every nation, one had to put a question to himself as to what sort of a religion he would have. In the first place, a man required to be aware of the knowledge of God. The ambition of some people was to find out that there was no God. They tried to find out and believe that there was no superbatural and guiding hand in the universe, but none of them could satisfy the world; so, in the second place, a man needed to find out what sort of God, his education, his culture and society demanded him to worship. Everybody's ambition, therefore, ought to be to have God, whom he could admire, whom he could worship, and whom he could fight for; whom he could accept as his Father and guide. Every man ought to pray to have a power that would resist sins, distinguish right from wrong, and prevent wrong doings. All those principles were contained in the religion, which Jesus Christ, their Saviour, gave to the world. While declaring his religion, the Lord said that it only consisted of four letters. That religion he said would suit people in every corner of the world,—nay, even to the man who was sitting at the end of the north pole. That religion was "Love." The love of God, the love of brothers, the love of neighbours and the love of all constituted principles of true religion. The General remarked that some people resolved to do no sins, but they had no power to act according to their resolution. Everybody ought, therefore, to pray to be possessed of the power and call upon God to take possession of his heart. The General concluded by expressing a desire to pay another visit to India, if he would be spared, and if he would be invited. He would visit India once more even if he were not invited. (Laughter.) The General thanked the gentlemen for the pecuniary support they had rendered for the noble cause of relieving the masses of poor people but he remarked that the admission money that day did not even defray the expenses. The General said that he had received quite wonderful support at Calcutta, where he had left his heart behind. (Laughter); but that heart, he thought, had come back to him in Bombay. (Laughter.) He appealed to the people to subscribe liberally to enable him to carry out his scheme.

Colonel Ajeet Singh also appealed to the gentlemen to subscribe liberally, saying that many people were prevented that day from attending the meeting owing to the calamitious death of the Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

ADDRESS ON SOCIAL REFORM.

"General" Booth, whilst speaking at the Framjee Cowasjee Institute, on Wednesday evening on Social Reform Work (Mr. Justice Telang in the chair), dwelt upon the question of drink traffic in India. The speaker drew their attention to the baneful influences of drink and pointed out that although the traffic in it had not assumed such proportions as it had in the "old country" yet there were evident signs that it was on the increase and suggested that some means should be adopted for checking it. Another subject of interest that the "General" made reference to was the question of widow re-marriage, and said that some means should be undertaken to remove the baneful influences of this Hindu law and allow widows to be re-married. The better cultivation of land by means of irrigation was also spoken upon and the double amount of produce that the cultivated districts would yield if greater care and attention were bestowed upon the manner of sowing the seeds. The "General" advocated the system of technical education and pointed out the immense advantages that would be derived by students in the acquisition of a trade. The rapid and continuous increase in the number of criminals, especially of the juvenile class, was also discussed and "General" Booth, to impress his hearers with a verification of this exesting evil, said that he had been informed, on good authority, that there were fifteen hundred of this type growing up in one City, uncared for, and would eventually become criminals on the street. In conclusion, "General" Booth said he was now simply passing through the land, but looked forward to the time when the weathier classes would come for the alleviation of India's misery. It was a source of satisfaction to see that the Salvation Army had made a commencement of the "Labour Yard" where there were forty-seven men employed, many of whom were ex-criminals. "General" Booth held out the hope that he would be able to return to India some day.

FAREWELL MEETING.

"General" Booth held his farewell meeting in Bombay last night in the great pandal, prior to his departure for England by the mail steamer to-morrow, although to-day he holds a private conference.

After the singing of a hymn Colonel Nichol, "General" Booth's private Secretary, who has accompanied him on his world's tour, spoke a few words of farewell.

"General" Booth said that he would express the words of farewell with very great regret indeed. His sojourn in India, notwithstanding it had been one of hardship from day to day, had been nevertheless one of pleasure, one of satisfaction. Taken altogether, his reception here had far exceeded his expectations. He had hardly dared to hope for such kindness and cordiality as he had received. Nothing but the inexorable calls of people of other countries, would compel him to take his departure, but he must attend to the calls of duty, and on Saturday he would say good-bye to Bombay. In saying his farewell words he felt a great responsibility upon him, for they were all apt to take more notice of farewell words than others. He had one or two favours to ask. They knew how he had striven for their benefit, and he knew he could therefore ask something in return. In the first place, if he might be excused the egotism, he would ask them to think of him sometimes. He would like to be remembered in such a manner as would be for their benefit. He would like his name to call to them good resolutions, and bring before their minds some of the arguments he had offered, so that they might lead happy and holy lives. He would also ask them to be kind to his people when he was away. Many cruel and unkind representations had been made about the Salvation Army, which had come here to labour for the salvation of India. They might not agree with all their arguments, or be prepared to bow down before the Saviour they worshipped, yet his people were giving their efforts to a great struggle for India's happiness. He then made an appeal for help. It would be a pity if they were left with any debt on their shoulders and it would be unpleasant for him to sail away with the consciousness that they were left in financial difficulties. He also asked them to be kind to the poor, who lived without hope. What was wanted to help the poor, those 50 millions, who lived on one meal a day, and who lived in hovels, ladies and gentlemen would not put their horses in he would tell them what was wanted to rescue those criminals by hundreds and thousands and by millions. They wanted men and women who had ultimately got hearts for the people, and who would stand out from their brethren until those about them joined in the combat.

A conference will be held in the pandal to-day, and to-morrow a demonstration will take place at the Apollo Bunder, when all the Army officers now in Bombay, will assemble to bid the "General" farewell.

GENERAL BOOTH AND THE ELPHINSTONIANS.

GENERAL Booth was invited by some of the members of the Executive Committee of the Elphinstone College Union to deliver a public lecture to the Union on the Practical Side of Education in the Framji Cowasjee Institute last evening. The general tried his utmost to include the lecture in his programme, but the present state of his health prevented him from accepting the invitation. The following letter was addressed yesterday afternoon to the Hon. Secretary of the Union on the subject:—

January 21st 1892. Mr. Rustam Barjorji Paymaster, B. A. Hon. Secretary, Elphinstone College Union.

Dear Sir,—Owing to the pressure of his many engagements I regret that it will be utterly impossible at this late hour for General Booth to do himself the pleasure of addressing your Society.—I am, yours faithfully, J. E. BUTLAND, A. D. C.

BOMBAY GYMKHANA.

THE following report of the Committee for the half-year ending 31st December is to be submitted to the General Meeting to be held in the pavilion on Wednesday, 3rd February:—

The total number of members of the Gymkhana is 932, of whom 327 were resident on 31st December 1891. Fifty-four new members have been elected during the past half-year, and 13 have resigned or ceased to belong to the club.

At the last half-yearly meeting, held on the 12th August 1891, the Committee consisted of the following gentlemen:—The Hon'ble Lyttelton H. Bayley, President, Mr. H. E. E. Procter, Joint Hony. Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. A. Prevost, Joint Hony. Secretary, Mr. H. M. Steuart, Boats Secretary, Mr. A. P. Gould, Cricket Secretary, Dr. D. MacDonald, Golf Secretary, Major The MacMahon, Lawn Tennis Secretary, Messrs. F. A. Prevost, Polo Secretary, H. B. Thurburn, Racquets Secretary, John Stiven, Bowls Secretary, H. A. Acworth, C.S., E. L. Barton, and F. C. Macrae, Additional Members. The following changes have taken place in the Committee during the half-year:—Major The MacMahon left Bombay and Mr. C. H. S. Boggs undertook the duties of Lawn Tennis Secretary, and Mr. M. Reid was appointed Secretary for Football.

Cricket.—The past season was an unusually unsuccessful one. Of the twelve matches played only three were won, two being drawn and seven lost. This was mainly due to the absence of most of the members who last year proved themselves so reliable, and to a great scarcity of fresh cricketers. The usual matches were played, and in addition to these, we had the pleasure of meeting on the Gymkhana ground an Eleven from Secunderabad and the Parsee Representative Team.

Polo has met with fair support during the past half-year. The annual tournament took place in October, for which 5 teams entered. Owing to various causes the Vikar-ul-Umrah's team was scratched, and, though in Bombay, did not play, which is to be regretted. The tournament was won by the 7th Hussars for the third year in succession and a facsimile of the Challenge Cup has been presented to the Regiment in commemoration of that event. Owing to the heavy and late rains, no rolling could be done to the ground, and a lot of filling up was necessary; but despite this, the ground has continued to play remarkably true.

Racquets.—The Court has been fairly well attended during the past six months. The Single Racquets tournament was played off during the polo week, the entries were good, and several of the matches extremely close. The cup was won by Mr. G. H. Hancock.

Lawn Tennis.—There is nothing special to report of this popular game during the past half-year, beyond that there was an open tournament held during the Gymkhana week, which, however, did not attract many entries, owing no doubt to the unsuitable time of the year for tennis. The annual competition for the Marryat Cup and the Western India Championship Cups, doubles and singles, will take place some time in February and March. The usual Handicap tournaments will take place in April or earlier.

Boating.—The boats were well supported during the mousoon at Mahim, and a crew was entered for the Challenge Fours at the Annual Poona Regatta, but were not successful, being beaten by Poona. Early in December the boats were removed from Mahim to the harbour for the fair weather, and are now housed, through the kindness of the B. B. and C. I. Railway authorities, in one of the Company's sheds on the Gun Carriage Bunder at Colaba. A floating landing stage has been provided and is moored in the basin, and all the boats are now in regular use. To meet the growing demands of the rowing members the following new boats have been ordered, and are expected to arrive shortly:—1 Tub four, 1 Tub pair, 2 Sculling whiffs. Some new oars were also ordered, and have arrived. The arrival of the new boats will again place the Club in a position to revive the Annual Regatta, and it is hoped that the growing interests now taken in boating will render this possible.

Golf.—During the monsoon Golf was played regularly by many players—a most unusual thing in Bombay. In October, as part of the Gymkhana Athletic Meeting, there were several competitions, all of which were well supported. The ordinary season commenced in November, and several competitions have taken place, the entries for them all being very numerous, showing that Golf is more popular than ever. The St. Andrew's Medal was won by Mr. J. S. Burn, and the Madras Medal Handicap by Mr. D. Carmichael.

Athletic Sports.—In lieu of the usual Athletic Sports, the Committee organised in October a "Sporting Week," comprising 2 days Athletic Sports and 2 days Mounted Sports, besides Golf, Bowling and Lawn Tennis Matches. The meeting was well supported, entries for the various events being very numerous, and it was considered a decided success. A Smoking Concert was also held in the pavilion, and the week wound up with an "At Home" in the Gymkhana grounds. The experiment having met with such hearty support, it is intended that a "Sporting Week" should form an annual fixture in the Gymkhana programme, and the Committee hope that in future there will be more entries from up-country stations than was the case this year.

Sky Races.—The usual Closed Meeting was held in December, and went off very successfully, Captain Steele and Mr. Bentinck kindly acting as Honorary Secretaries. The next meeting will be held in February and as the Steeplechase Course has been much improved, it is hoped that the entries for these events will be more numerous than usual.

Football owing to the late breaking of the rains, was not started until the beginning of July; practice games were then played regularly twice a week on the Co-operage grounds, and a large number of valuable recruits were added to those who played regularly in 1890. In August a Gymkhana team went over to Calcutta to play for the Rugby Union Challenge Cup, and were most hospitably entertained by the Calcutta Football Club. The Gymkhana won all the ties they played, beating the "Buffs" in the final, and thus secured the Challenge Cup, which will remain with us for a year. On the return journey to Bombay a halt was made at Allahabad, at the invitation of Colonel Symons and the Officers of the South Wales Borderers, and a friendly match played against their Regimental team, resulting in a draw. A Football tournament was held in September in connection with the Athletic and Sporting Week, for which the Gymkhana offered a handsome Cup. Five teams entered for the tournament, including the Buffs from Calcutta, and it resulted in a draw between the Buffs and the Civilians. The cup was presented to the Buffs by the Gymkhana as a memento of their visit to Bombay.

Bowls.—A good many players turned out in the autumn months, and two matches have been played during the half-year, the former taking place during the Week. The green is kept in good order.

Badminton has not been played much during the last six months. Members are reminded that the election for the year 1892 will take place at the General Meeting to be held on Wednesday, 3rd February.

H. E. E. PROCTER,
F. A. PREVOST,
Joint Honorary Secretaries.

MR. A. CUMINE, C.S., acting Collector, Ratnagiri has been allowed furlough on medical certificate for five months.

BOMBAY MUNICIPAL CORPORATION.

AN adjourned meeting of the Corporation was held yesterday afternoon under the presidency of Mr. George Cotton, for the purpose of considering the budget estimates and amendments thereon for the year 1892-93.

BUDGET ESTIMATES.

Mr. E. B. Carroll moved the passing of the estimate for the fire brigade at Rs. 1,37,930, a decrease of Rs. 6,870, on the previous year's estimates, and including a proposition to increase the salary of the chief officer, Mr. Nicholls, from Rs. 500, to Rs. 600 per mensem.

Mr. Duxbury, in the absence of Dr. Viegas, moved the latter gentleman's amendment to reduce the estimate by the amount proposed to be given as increase of salary to Mr. Nicholls. He considered that the chief officer's salary of Rs. 500 was adequate, and that his pay was fifty per cent. more than that of a captain in the English army.

Dr. Mody seconded the amendment.

Dr. Cowasjee Hormusjee opposed the amendment and called attention to the resolution of the Corporation on the subject, and said they were at one time prepared to pay a higher sum for the services of an efficient officer than that proposed to be given.

Mr. P. Mehta, Mr. Kapadia, Dr. Viegas, and Dr. Setna opposed on the ground that the officer was not entitled to an increase until his agreement of three years had expired.

Mr. T. B Kirkham supported the original proposition and considered it would be a piece of political generosity in keeping up a good officer to his work by paying him the salary which in a similar position in an European city he would receive and which they would have been prepared to sanction had they known what an able officer he would turn out to be.

Mr. Grattan Geary considered it was desirable to give the increase, as they had obtained a man who was something more than a fireman—a good organiser, and a capable administrator, who could secure efficiency at small cost.

The Municipal Commissioner said the Corporation had a perfect right to keep Mr. Nicholls at Rs. 500 per month, but he asked the Corporation to reward an exceptional good service which had resulted in a financial saving before the expiration of his agreement. It was an act of reward and liberality. Mr. Nicholls was a first-rate administrator. When he first came to Bombay it took eleven to thirteen minutes to turn out an engine, whilst on the last occasion he (the Commissioner) witnessed a turn-out it occupied exactly one minute twenty-five seconds. His was eminently a case in which the Corporation might show their sense of the good service he had rendered by giving him the small increase in salary. He had heard with regret the speeches made in opposition to it. The good result that had been brought about, and the fact that they would be able to bring down the estimates from three-quarters to one half per cent. was due in a great measure to the administrative ability of Mr. Nicholls.

Mr. Dinshaw Wacha opposed the increase and asked where there had been any big fire to prove the efficiency of Mr. Nicholls' administration, and remarked that the Commissioner's observation about Bombay having the finest fire brigade in Asia was a species of the oratorical sawdust that he indulged in on such occasions.

The amendment was then put to the vote and lost, nineteen voting for and twenty-four against.

Mr. Wacha then moved as an amendment that "the Fire Brigade Establishment be fixed at Rs. 49,560 instead of Rs. 53,160 that the cost of one fire engine, namely, Rs. 9,500 be wholly disallowed, also Rs. 7,500 for fire manual fire engines be disallowed.

Mr. Suntook seconded the amendment.

The amendment was lost.

Dr. Viegas proposed that the estimate for the Fire Brigade grant be passed at Rs. 1,34,390, on the ground that the appointment of a surgeon to the Fire Brigade was not necessary.

Dr. Mody seconded.

Dr. Balchandra in supporting the motion said he, like Mr. Wacha was crying in the wilderness against increased expenditure. It would be useless for him to get up as he believed the "house was packed," but it was his duty to resist such expenditure.

Mr. Duxbury supported the amendment, which after some discussion was lost by a large majority.

The Fire Brigade estimates, as set forth in the budget, were carried.

POLICE CHARGES.

Mr. P. Mehta asked for precedence to move the following motion. "That the consideration of the police charges be postponed until this day week, and in the meantime the Commissioner be asked to obtained from Government a detailed statement of the cost of the police from 1883 up to the present time." The Corporation sanctioned the moving of the motion.

Mr. Mehta said that the Corporation had paid up to the present time Rs. 2,58,285, plus a credit of Rs. 10,000. Adding to it even the full cost of the proposed increased police force stated by Government at one lakh, the whole contribution should not be more than Rs. 3,68,285, whilst what was asked as a three quarter share was Rs. 4,50,000. He was convinced that that was an error on the part of Government, and as he, therefore, desired to get the figures from Government he asked for in his motion,

The motion was carried without opposition.

The expenditure for public gardens in Bombay was passed at Rs. 82,297, an increase of Rs. 1,558, expenditure for general supervision and miscellaneous duties Rs. 41,060. Drainage was passed at Rs. 1,93,429, an increase of Rs. 10,288.

The Corporation then adjourned until Wednesday next.

The Exchange Banks on Tuesday further reduced their buying rate in London on India at 30 days' sight by 1-16d., making it stand at 1s. 4 1-16d. The latest Paris quotations to hand are unchanged at 95¼ for Rentes; and fcs. 25·17 for Exchange on London.

At the weekly Biddings for Indian Council remittances in London yesterday, when 40 lakhs were offered, 34 lakhs of Bills were allotted to Calcutta, 12 lakhs to Bombay, and 2 lakhs to Madras at 1s. 4 7-32d. and 2 lakhs of Telegraphic transfer to Calcutta at 1s. 4 9-32d; half a lakh of extra Bills on Calcutta having also been placed at 1s. 4⅛d. The regular allotment rate for Bills thus showed a decline of ⅛d. from the previous Wednesday's price, and of 7-32d. from the extreme rate obtained for extra allotments made meantime. It is announced that 40 lakhs will be offered again next week.

The Wheat Market was dull yesterday at a decline of 1d. per cental both in No. 1 Soft Wheat and White Delhi on the spot in Liverpool, at 7s. 10d. for the former, and 7s. 6d. for the latter, ex.-quay. Linseed was quieter; but the last previous quotation of 42s. 3d. per quarter, ex.-quay, for Bombay Seed, to arrive, still ruled.

Cotton in Liverpool advanced 1-16d. per lb. for spot Americans, and 3-32d. for Arrivals, on Tuesday, the market having closed firm; Surats dull; and Arrivals quiet; with the days Sales 10,000 bales, not including any East Indian Cotton. The day's Imports were 37,000 bales. The Manchester Market was quiet but steady. Yesterday the Liverpool market closed with a hardening tendency; Surats dull; and Arrivals quiet; with total Sales 8,000 bales only, including 400 East Indians. The spot price of Americans remained at 4 1-16d. per lb; but Arrivals advanced further 1-32d. to 3-64d. per lb., the extreme quotations being 4 5-64d. for January and January-February deliveries, and 4 15-64d. for May and June. The day's Imports were 17,000 bales. The Manchester Market was quiet.

The Liverpool Wool Auction opened on Tuesday with a quiet feeling, and prices barely maintained. The total number of bales offered is 19,000.

In New York, Ready Mid.-Uplands was still worth 7 9-16 cents on Tuesday; but April Futures were 3 points higher at 7·57 cents. The Receipts of the U. S. Ports were 20,000 bales. Yesterday the spot price advanced 1-16 cent., to 7⅜; while Futures for April were 15 points higher, at 7·72 cents; the Receipts having been only 12,000 bales. The total Receipts of the U. S. Ports for the present season now compare as follows with those of the two previous years:—

Tuesday's Receipts.	20,000	31,000	28,000
Wednesday's do. ...	12,000	27,000	18,000
Four days' do. ...	75,000	117,000	98,000
Since 1st Sept. 1891...	5,163,000	4,980,000	4,728,000

A larger, but still moderate, business has been passing in our local Cotton market to-day, and prices may be called Re. 1 to Rs. 2 higher, in sympathy with the improvement in the governing markets. Exporters have bought 1,250 bales of new stuff, consisting of 500 Bengals, at 168-70; 300 Akote, at Rs. 160; 100 each of Khangaum, at Rs. 162; and Julgaum, at Rs. 156½; and 50 each of Barsee, at Rs. 177½; and Karanja, Ginned at Rs. 173; while the Mills have taken 830 bales, made up of 300 old Bhavnugger, at Rs. 140-7; 200 new Julgaum, at Rs. 155-7; 150 Barsee, at Rs. 177½; 100 each of Dhulia, at Rs. 150, and Khangaum at Rs. 158 per candy.

WHEAT has been quiet in tone, and only a small export business has been done, but prices are unchanged for all descriptions.

SEEDS, on the other hand, have been firm and a considerable business has transpired, especially in Linseed and Gingelly, prices of which have advanced one anna per cwt., and eight annas per candy, respectively, at our quotations.

Linseed	Rs. 6-13-6 to Rs. 6-15-6	per cwt.
Rapeseed Yellow Guzerat	7-10-0	"
" " Cawnpore	7-4-0 to Rs. 7-6-0	"

Gingelly White	40-8-0 to Rs. 42-8-0	pr. cdy.
" Mixed	38-0-0 to Rs. 41-0-0	"

The Receipts of Produce into Bombay yesterday were as follows:—

Cotton	5,947 bales.
Wheat	10,311 cwt.
Linseed	2,721 "
Gingelly	7,737 "
Groundnuts	1,029 "
Castorseed	2,061 "

FREIGHTS.—The market is weak, produce for shipment getting scarce. The Clan Stuart (s), for early February loading, has been chartered at 20s. per ton for one picked port, the Dragoman (s), has been berthed for Marseilles, at 20s. per ton. for January shipment; and the Netherby Hall (s), ready, has filled up for Liverpool at 19s. 6d. to 19s. per ton.

MONEY.—The increased demand for money, more especially, for the financing of the Cotton crop now arriving more freely, as indicated by the returns of the Presidency Bank for the last few weeks, has caused the directors to raise their rate by one per cent. this afternoon, and the minimum thus stands at 4 per cent.

EXCHANGE opened 1-16d. lower for Bank Paper and 1-32d. lower for Credits than our closing rates of Tuesday, and a moderate business has been done both ways, and we close quiet but steady, at the following quotations for ready business:—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 4¼d.	per rupee.
Do. Telegraphic	1s. 4 7-32d.	"
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 4 5-16d.	"
Credits do.	1s. 4 7-16d.	"
Francs do.	1·72⅛d.	"

GOVERNMENT PAPER has further given way today, and though the Market was steady for a time at 106 for Fours for cash, 105⅞ for the 2nd February, and 105⅝ for the March account, rates afterwards declined further ⅛ per cent, the cash price leaving off at 105⅞.

SHARES.—Cotton Mill and Press Scrip is quiet but steady, and quotations generally are unchanged.

MARRIAGE.

The Bombay Gazette

FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1892.

IN these simple and touching words the Prince and Princess of Wales mark their sense of the universality and depth of the sympathy shown to the sorrowing Royal Family in their heavy affliction: "Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales are anxious to express to Her Majesty's subjects at home, in the Colonies, and India, their deep gratitude for the universal sympathy shown for them in their terrible calamity. The remembrance that their grief has been shared by all classes will be a lasting solace to their sorrowing hearts, and, if possible, will attach them more than ever to their dear country." The funeral of the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale took place at Windsor on Wednesday afternoon. The Prince of Wales followed the coffin of his son on foot from the Church at Sandringham to the railway station; the Princess and her daughters, with Prince George of Wales, and the hapless Princess May of Teck, were also in the mournful cortege, and proceeded by train to Windsor. A detachment of the 10th Hussars, in which Prince Albert Victor held the rank of Major, removed the coffin, which was escorted by the Life-guards and preceded by massed bands, to the Albert Chapel, where the service of the Church was held by the Bishop of Rochester, assisted by the Dean and Chapter. The Prince of Wales, the telegraph states, was overcome with emotion; the sorrowing mother with her daughters witnessing the solemn ceremony from their private pew. At the close of the service the coffin was laid in the vault of the Albert Chapel covered with innumerable wreaths, one of which was a tribute of remembrance from his Highness the Maharaja of Bhownuggur. Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, and every church in London was thronged with mourners; muffled peals of bells were rung from every steeple, and minute guns fired at the Tower of London as at Windsor and elsewhere, throughout the afternoon. Commemoratory services were held in every town in the United Kingdom, in foreign capitals, and in every British Colony. It was the same throughout India. In Bombay, at a public meeting of the citizens convened in the Town Hall, resolutions of sympathy were passed and transmitted to Her Majesty, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Princess May, and the Royal Family. The Bishop of Bombay, presided, and other leading citizens spoke to the resolutions, which were passed in solemn silence. A commemoratory service was held in the Cathedral by the Bishop of Bombay, at which the European community, official and non-official, with his Excellency the Governor at their head, were present so far as they could find standing room. The service was solemn and affecting; a striking and indeed almost overpowering impression being created by the beating of the muffled drums of the Yorkshire Regiment in the Dead March. Minute guns were fired throughout the afternoon till dusk, and every flag, British and foreign, was at half-mast. The mills and indeed all places of business were closed, and the whole city was in mourning. Our telegraphic columns testify that in all the great cities, and not in British territory only, but in the Native States as well, the evidences of sorrowing sympathy were many and striking. In Hyderabad, by order of his Highness the Nizam, the occasion was marked by the closing of the public offices for two days, and in the districts for three. On the day of the funeral, minute guns were fired, one for each year of the age of his Royal Highness. The Nizam published in a Gazette Extraordinary the following tribute of affectionate personal regret: "His Highness the Nizam deeply mourns the loss of a personal friend in the sad and untimely death of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, who had only lately honoured Hyderabad with a visit; and who, by his kindness and courtesy, had made himself universally respected by all classes in Hyderabad." His Excellency the Viceroy was amongst the first to telegraph to the afflicted Queen the assurance of the universal sympathy felt in all parts of India for the Royal Family and the bereaved parents. Lord Harris and the Members of the Bombay Government, and the Governments of the sister Presidencies and other Provinces, also paid homage to a great sorrow. The Prince who has died so young will be long remembered, not only in England but in India. "Death hath this also; that it openeth the gates to good fame, and extinguisheth envy."

THE lapse of the Anglo-Portuguese Treaty on the 14th instant brings into view other questions than those connected with the Customs relations between British India and the Portuguese possessions in India. The immediate result of the failure of the recent negotiations at Lisbon has been a return to the status quo ante in fiscal matters. The Customs union between the two Governments is dissolved, and each regains its own freedom of action in regard to salt, abkari, and customs arrangements generally. But it is just possible that the question will not end there. The Treaty of 1878, as every one knows who remembers or has studied the negotiations that preceded it, dealt with railway matters as well as with customs. The immediate incitement to the negotiations was the sudden abrogation by the British Government in 1876, for good reasons which we need not here go into, of the privileges enjoyed by the Portuguese factory at Surat, under an ancient firman from the Delhi Emperors,—privileges which had at length operated to the serious detriment of the British Customs revenue. The British Government, taking their stand upon the principle that the firman was revocable, refused to grant any indemnity for the rights thus abrogated. All the same they felt that the occasion was opportune for putting the Customs relations between the two powers upon a definite basis; and the Portuguese Government, whose diplomatic capacity at that time was not to be despised, thought that an indemnity for the loss of Portuguese privileges at Surat might be sought in another direction. Very early in the negotiations the Portuguese Government endeavoured to secure the acceptance by the British Government of the principle that compensation for the loss of Portuguese privileges at Surat should be given in the form of a considerable contribution towards the cost of constructing a railway from Mormugao to Hubli. The proposal was very distinctly rejected, only to be revived in a new form. The Portuguese Cabinet approached the British Government in these terms:—"The construction of a railway which shall connect the port of Mormugao with the British system of railways is, in the opinion of the Government of his Majesty, the necessary complement to the customs union, and it is hoped that, looking at the matter from that point of view, the Government of India will not refuse the assistance which the Government of his Majesty requires." The pleadings thus formulated were in the end successful. Public opinion, and it may be added the opinion of the Bombay Government, was strongly against according to the Portuguese the assistance which they asked for for a railway project whose obvious purpose was to create for them an important commercial port. Early in the seventies a survey had been carried out for laying down a railway from Hubli to Karwar, a port whose chief recommendations are that it is landlocked and accessible at all seasons of the year, and that it is British. The Bombay Government had favoured the scheme, but the Secretary of State had twice vetoed it against the strong opinion of the commercial community of Bombay. However, the Treaty of 1878, establishing the Customs Union between British India and Portuguese India, made for the time being an end of controversy. An article of that Treaty provided that whenever the King of Portugal should give notice that a joint stock company had been formed for the construction of a railway from Mormugao to Hubli, and that his Majesty proposed to give a concession for the railway and for the improvement of the port of Mormugao, her Majesty's Government, on being satisfied that the capital was forthcoming, should enter into a contract with the company for the construction of the line. The Government of India, in announcing this to the Chamber of Commerce, who had pronounced warmly in favour of the Karwar terminus, as against that at Mormugao, said that it was by no means clear that the general superiority of the one port over the other had been established, but that the Treaty of 1878 had virtually settled the question. In this connection, moreover, it is important to notice what Lord Hartington at that time Secretary of State for India, said upon the question:—"On a review of the whole question, having regard neither to our Treaty obligations alone, nor to the interests of our provinces alone, but, as I am bound to do, in the light of both together, I have felt myself constrained to decide in favour of the line to Mormugao."

We have quoted this because it brings out with great clearness the fact that it was not as a measure of railway policy pure and simple that the Secretary of State pronounced in favour of Mormugao as against Karwar, for the terminus for the projected railway. The choice of Mormugao, in a word, was one of the conditions on which the Customs Union was agreed to. It is true that the subsidy asked from the British Government was refused; but it may be doubted if the Lisbon Cabinet were blind to the fact that in asking for that they were asking for more than they were likely to get. But in securing the decision of the British Government in favour of their own route the Portuguese Government certainly scored heavily; in their own minds they must have felt that the revoked privileges of the Surat Factory had not been entirely uncompensated for. Clearly, however, Lord Hartington, in the passage we have quoted, intended that the patronage of the West of India Portuguese Railway by Government should be treated as part and parcel of the compact of which the Customs Union was the subject of the chief articles. And although the Secretary of State, in assenting to the Treaty, reserved his right to carry out the line to Karwar, so long as the Treaty remained in existence there was one reason which has until the present been deemed sufficient why it should not be exercised. With the lapse of the Treaty that reason has disappeared, and there is no restraint, moral or conventional, upon the absolute liberty of action of the Government of India in regard to the port at which the railway system of the South Mahratta Country shall find its outlet. They stand in fact in precisely the same position in regard to the sea terminus of the South Mahratta system as they stood in before the Treaty of 1878 was concluded. They are free, then, to take the most sternly utilitarian view of the question whether Mormugao is as good a sea terminus for that system as Karwar would be. At the recent meeting of the shareholders of the South Mahratta Railway, the Chairman spoke very plainly of the disadvantages under which the company labour owing to its only access to the sea being over the West of India Portuguese Railway. At Poona, the complaint is, it is handicapped by heavy transhipment charges by the Great Indian Peninsula Railway; while from Castle Rock it has to send its traffic over foreign territory to a foreign terminus. It is true that the Portuguese line is worked by a staff of competent English officials, who do all that they can to make it work smoothly. But the Portuguese Government exact their full share of control in return for their five per cent. guarantee, and this does not tend to unity of action between the railway and the greater line inland for which it is intended to serve as the outlet. The true test of the success or failure of the undertaking to which the British Government gave their patronage in 1878 is, however, to be found in the measure of success or of failure that has attended the experiment of making a commercial harbour of Mormugao. The harbour itself remains uncompleted, and no one in Goa would undertake to say that it ever will be finished. But what is more significant is that Mormugao remains almost unprovided with the commercial facilities which would have come in in rich abundance if the town had been British instead of Portuguese. The Bannia and the Bhattia and the Khoja, without whom it would be impossible to finance trade on either the Indian or the African side of the Indian Ocean, have obstinately refused to pitch their tents in Goa. Their preference for British law and British tribunals as against Portuguese may be the mark of an incompletely informed mind; but the fact must be taken as it stands, that where the Portuguese flag waves in British India, the native banker cares not to establish himself. Nor is this all. The lapse of the Treaty, we have heard from Goa this week, has been at once followed by obstruction to traffic on the part of the Portuguese Customs officials on the frontier. Whatever may have had to be said concerning the facilities for through traffic while the British and the Portuguese territories were joined in a local zollverein, the difference that there must be between the railway under the Treaty and the railway with the Treaty rescinded is already being demonstrated.

The West of India Portuguese Railway has certainly this claim upon our consideration, that though it subsists on a guarantee given by the Portuguese Government, it has its domicile in London, and the capital embarked in it is British. But it ultimately asserts itself upon the notice of the Government of India as the outlet to one of the great guaranteed lines—a line extending over a thousand miles, and which, when all its connections have been completed, will be one of the longest lines in India. It will not be long, we are persuaded, before they have to face the question whether the embouchoure of so important a system, by which the produce of a large part of the Madras Presidency, of Mysore, the Deccan and the South Mahratta Country finds its way to the port of shipment, shall be across a line under foreign control, the traffic of which is under foreign fiscal regulations which there is no reason to think of as enlightened and favouring to trade, and which at the best will be worked under serious financial disadvantages. For there need be no mistake as to the prospects of the West of India Portuguese Railway now that, by the lapse of the Treaty of 1878, the Goa Treasury is deprived of the only substantial receipt it could confidently count upon in the Rs. 4,00,000 a year which it has received for the past twelve years in compensation for the King of Portugal's salt rights. The financial position of the line cannot now be spoken of as much better than desperate. The four lakhs from the British Government were hypothecated for the payment of the guaranteed interest. These have disappeared; and there remain £800,000 of capital on which the Portuguese Government have to pay interest at the rate of five per cent., and a supplementary capital of £550,000 raised at six per cent. The total interest then comes to £73,000 a year, a formidable sum, when told in Goa in rupees. It may be roughly at ten-and-a-half lakhs a year, of which only half a lakh can be looked for from net earnings. There have been rumours lately that the Portuguese Government intend to try to raise a loan to meet the next claim for interest; but we must credit the Lisbon Government with more wisdom than to resort to an expedient which even a Calonne would have shrunk from in similar circumstances. The finances of the Home Government indeed are precisely in the condition in which no Government would think of going to the market except under pressure of the most desperate necessity. Reuter tells us to-day that the new Portuguese Finance Minister intends to reduce the interest on the public debt—a preliminary to inviting a loan which would only be intelligible in the finance of Bedlam. We take it then that there will be no loan to pay the West of India Portuguese Railway shareholders their interest, but that the Portuguese Government will endeavour to make it up out of the abkari revenue, and of so much of the salt revenue as may be raised now that they have regained their liberty of action in regard to salt. But the most favourable estimate of the abkari proceeds, we understand, places them at six lakhs. It looks, therefore, as though the line would, under the most favourable circumstances, have to struggle against serious disadvantages, and we revert to the proposition which we have set out above, that the time has come for the Government of India to seriously consider whether a line working under the conditions, political and financial, under which this line will be worked henceforth, can constitute a suitable outlet for such a system as that of the Southern Mahratta Railway.

SHOULD the reports which reach us from Tiflis prove true, and the killing of two hundred of the insurgents in Kellar-Dasht be the accompaniment of their defeat by the Teheran troops, there is a prospect of immediate quietness and order being again restored. Severe fighting, in the ordinarily accepted sense of the term, was perhaps not expected, for the insurgents, though possibly well-equipped with small arms, were not likely to have been so provided as to enable them to make any hopeful stand against the troops which were sent against them. The rebellion broke out in November, and a despatch which the Tabrez correspondent of the Daily News sent off at the end of the month stated that the rising threatened to spread far and wide. The ring-leader appears to be a man who may be styled a Persian Mahdi. A descendant of the Prophet, as he claims to be, on attaining man's estate, became convinced that the teachings of the established religion had become corrupt, and he accordingly set himself to reform them. Unfortunately for the prospects of his own ambition he committed an initial error. The son of a prophet has as little chance of public recognition in his own country as the proverbial prophet himself, and the Sayeed began preaching close to his own home and among those who had known him. He found it prudent to move from Sahna to Marzandaran, and begin again on a new plan. Having first established a reputation for piety he began to propound his new doctrines. And in Persia, as elsewhere, there are to be found people ready to forsake the recognised order of things. His following soon became sufficiently numerous to enable him to preach his doctrines openly. He entered Kellar-Dasht, professed to perform miracles, and assumed the title of "the Last Vicegerent of the Prophet." So long as he confined his attention to spiritual matters he does not seem to have suffered any more inconvenience than "General" Booth did in England. But this was not sufficient. He had a political scheme as well as a religious and a social one, aiming even at a temporal

LONDON IN MOURNING.

LONDON, JAN. 20.

In London to-day, there are everywhere signs of the deepest mourning. Business is largely suspended, all flags are flying at half mast, and the blinds of business premises and many private houses are drawn.

The body of the late Duke of Clarence was removed from Sandringham at ten o'clock this morning by special train to Datchett, respectful crowds lining the route to the station.

THE FUNERAL CEREMONY

LONDON, JAN. 20.

At the funeral of his son to-day, the Prince of Wales was overcome with emotion. His Royal Highness walked to the station behind the coffin, the Princess and her daughters, Prince George of Wales and Princess May driving thither.

The coffin was removed by a detachment of the 10th Hussars, and the cortege, escorted by the Life-guards and headed by massed bands, proceeded to the Chapel through dense and respectful crowds.

The Chapel was draped and the coffin surrounded with numberless wreaths.

The Bishop of Rochester, assisted by the Dean and Canons, officiated at the service, which was most impressive, foreign representatives and State officials being present.

The Princess of Wales and her family witnessed the service from their private pew.

Upon the conclusion of the solemn ceremony the body was laid in the vault of the Albert Chapel.

During the day services were held in St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, and elsewhere, every church being densely thronged. Muffled peals of bells were rung in the city, and the day was observed here and in the provinces with general mourning. Minute guns were fired from the Tower of London, also at Windsor, Chatham and elsewhere throughout the afternoon.

POONA CAMP-OF-EXERCISE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, JAN. 21.

To-day General Blundell determined to attack that portion of the enemy's position in front of the "Sisters" lying due north of Dhanowri village. At 9-30 o'clock the attack commenced by four field batteries under Colonel Kaye, coming into action in line some seventeen hundred yards south-east of Dhanowri, and bringing a heavy fire on the enemy's position, under cover of which an advance was made by the Infantry. The First Brigade, Colonel Lugard commanding on the right, was to carry out a flank attack at the moment the enemy found himself held in front by General Sandy's Brigade which advanced on the position through Dhanowri village. The machine guns under Lieutenant Peacocke were placed on the right of the First Brigade and received orders to advance with it. The several columns were brought within extending distance unobserved by means of various sinuous nalahs which run up towards the "Sister's" position, and the attack was pushed on under continued fire of the enemy, represented by a succession of powder puffs and gun-cotton fuses. The disposition of the Infantry, First Brigade, was two battalions in the first line and two in second line. In the Second Brigade were two battalions, first line ; one in the second line and two in the third line. Fire was opend at eight hundred yards and continued till within 150 yards. On reaching this distance a counter attack was illustrated by screens placed obliquely. The defence was repulsed by the third line of the Second Brigade, which was brought up to meet it. During the advance the C. R. A. finding his front clouded by the infantry attack, galloped to the right flank and took up a well-selected position near Temple Hill, whence he could play on the enemy's trenches till the last moment and sweep the open ground in front of the line in case of retirement. The result of the firing was satisfactory, and his Excellency, who was with the attack throughout, expressed himself pleased with the manner in which the operation was carried out.

Siege operations commence to-morrow at ten o'clock. Nos.14 and 21, Eastern Division, and No. 11 Company, Southern Division are in camp. The first artillery position, two thousand four hundred yards, direct fire from guns and howitzers by day and night, to dismount or silence ordnance in a well concealed battery which has commenced to open fire at targets ; four gun siege battery, strongly traversed and screened projectiles to be used by day ; six-inch howitzers, twenty-eight common shell, forty pounders, twenty-one common shell, twenty-five pounders, twelve common shell by night. Six-inch howitzers, eight common shell forty pounders, eight common shell twenty-five pounders, four common shell powder-puffs will represent the enemy's guns at intervals to correct line.

THE DEATH OF THE DUKE OF CLARENCE AND AVONDALE.

MOURNING THROUGHOUT INDIA.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

On Wednesday evening and yesterday the following telegrams were received from our correspondents reporting the commemorative ceremonies held during Wednesday in various parts of the country :—

SERVICES AT CALCUTTA.

This morning a special service on the occasion of the funeral of H. R. H. the Duke of Clarence was held in the Cathedral. Special seating accommodation was made, but it was inadequate for the large congregation which attended. Many remained standing throughout the services. H. E. the Viceroy attended in State, and was supported by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the Judges' Consuls, officials and heads of departments, and other civil and military officers. The service consisted of portions of the Burial Service, a selected lesson and prayers, with hymns appropriate to the occasion and an Anthem. The service concluded with the "Dead March in Saul."

Special services were held at St. John's Church, the Greek and Armenian churches, and the Jewish synagogues.

MOURNING AT MADRAS.

A special service in the Cathedral was held this afternoon and was largely attended. A public meeting was afterwards held in the Banquetting Hall. The meeting was very largely attended and thoroughly representative. His Excellency the Governor, the Commander-in-Chief, the Chief Justice and leading inhabitants representing all classes were present. The Hon'ble Mir Humayun Jah Bahadur proposed, and Mr. S.R. Turnbull seconded, that the Governor be requested to take the chair. The Governor then delivered the principal speech. It seemed only a short time ago, he said, since H.R.H. the Duke was here in the best of health and spirits; and a few days sudden illness had carried him away. A universal cry of sorrow and sympathy had gone up, and it was to him a matter of special gratification that the citizens of Madras were by no means backward in expressing sincere sympathy with the Royal Family, who felt exactly the same as we do, and such a blow as this fell as bitterly and poignantly on them as on anyone. Therefore, the expressions of sympathy uttered now would be especially gratifying to the Royal Family. In two or three hours would be laid to rest the remains of this unfortunate Prince.

The Chief Justice, Sir Arthur Collins, moved : "That the citizens of Madras have received the sad tidings of the death of H.R.H. the Duke of Clarence and Avondale with deep sorrow, and desire respectfully to express their heartfelt sympathy with her Majesty the Queen-Empress of India and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales in their sore bereavement. Sir Arthur Collins remarked that the Duke did his duty—his was a blameless life ; those who knew him loved and respected him.

Rai Bahadur P. Ananda Charlu seconded the resolution, and alluded to the death as an Imperial calamity.

Sir Savalay Ramaswami Moodelliar proposed, and Mr. B. Lowry seconded, that H. . the Governor be requested to forward the resolution through the proper official course. A vote of thanks to the Governor and the Sheriff concluded the meeting.

The Governor replying, said he should never forget how the inhabitants of Madras had expressed their feelings on this occasion.

POONA.

Yesterday being the day appointed for the funeral of the late Duke of Clarence, mourning was observed by all classes in Poona. The 36th Field Battery fired 28 minute guns at Kirkee. A special service was held in St. Mary's Church. Sir George Greaves, Major-General Blundell, and almost all the military and civilians were present. The church was heavily draped in black. The Dead March in Saul was played. The service was very solemn and impressive. After a hymn was sung the Revd. Father Nansen addressed the meeting. The service concluded by the singing of the hymn "In sparkling raiment bright," and as the clergy and choristers marched down the aisle from their seats to the vestry, Beethoven's Funeral March was played.

Sir Greaves and the Head-Quarters Staff and many officers attended the service at Saint Mary's this evening. Minute guns were fired at all the head-quarters in the Presidency.

HYDERABAD.

The following Gazette Extraordinary was issued by the orders of his Highness the Nizam :—"The melancholy intelligence has been received of the death, on the morning of the 14th instant, of his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor Christian Edward, Duke of Clarence and Avondale, Earl of Athlone, K.G., K.P., LL.D., Cantab and Dublin, the eldest son of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. His Highness the Nizam directs that as a mark of respect all public offices in Hyderabad should be closed to-day and to-morrow, and in the districts on the day on which this Jareeda may reach, and on the following day. On the day of the funeral, minute guns corresponding to the age of his Royal Highness will be fired. His Highness the Nizam deeply mourns the loss of a personal friend in the sad and untimely death of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, who had only lately honoured Hyderabad with a visit, and who, by his kindness and courtesy, had made himself universally respected by all classes in Hyderabad."

INDORE.

As a mark of respect to the memory of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, his Highness the Maharaja Holkar directed all the courts, offices, and shops in the city to be closed, and twenty-eight minute guns to be fired to-day.

RUTLAM.

To-day being the funeral day of H. R. H. the Duke of Clarence and Avondale, all the Courts and shops were closed, and general mourning was observed throughout the territory. Twenty-eight minute guns were also fired.

BANSDA STATE.

When the news of the death of H. R. H. Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and Avondale reached Bansda, H. H. the Raja Saheb Maharaja Shri Pratabsingji expressed his deep regret, and ordered the Darbar and the town into mourning for three days, all public offices, schools, shops, &c., being closed. He also eulogized the Prince as a most promising ruler, and announced his intention to lay out a sum of four thousand rupees towards the construction of a Dharmshala to perpetuate the memory of the deceased in Bansda.

MHOW.

A Parsee meeting was called to-day by Dastur Cursetjee Jamshedjee Jamasp Asa for sympathising with her Majesty the Queen on the death of Prince Albert Victor. The Dustoorjee and Khan Bahdoor Khory addressed the meeting.

GYA.

The Secretary to the Provisional Committee of the Gya Rate-payers' Association called a meeting, which was attended by over five thousand inhabitants of Gya yesterday, to express their deep sorrow at the death of his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor. Resolutions were adopted that a telegram be sent on behalf of the people of Gya, expressing their loyal and respectful condolence with her Majesty the Queen-Empress, and a similar one to their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales. The shops were all closed, and the whole town has gone into mourning.

FYZABAD.

At Fyzabad a crowded meeting was held in the Anjuman-i-Tehzib, and great sorrow was expressed at the untimely death of the Duke of Clarence. It was resolved that the most loyal and respectful sympathy of the residents of Fyzabad be conveyed to her Majesty and the Prince and Princess of Wales in their grievous affliction.

AGRA.

A large and representative meeting was held by the community of Agra yesterday, when it was resolved to send a telegram of condolence to her Majesty the Queen-Empress. Prayers were offered in the mosques and temples to-day, and public mourning was observed all the shops being closed.

ALLAHABAD.

This morning memorial services were held in All Saints' Church at Allahabad, and at five o'clock this evening a special funeral service was held.

MEETING AT AKOLA.

At a mass meeting of Europeans, Hindus, Mahomadens and Parsees convened by Dastur Bymanji Jamaspji, C.I.E., and Rao Saheb Deorao Vinayak, the following resolutions, after Mr. Bymanji was voted to the chair, on Mr. Cumberlege's suggestion, were proposed and carried. It was proposed in a very eloquent speech in Marathi and English by Rao Saheb Deorao Vinayak, and seconded by Khawaja Abdool Samod and Mr. Sorabji Nicholson, that the British subjects of Akola District assembled here do express their heartfelt sympathy with her Majesty the Queen-Empress, Their Royal Highness Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Mary of Teck, and the whole Royal Family, on the great calamity which has befallen the British Empire by the untimely death of H. R. H. the Duke of Clarence and Avondale. Proposed by Mr. Aitken, Agent of the Bombay Bank, and seconded by Mr. Azizuddin, that a telegram to the above effect be sent to General Sir Henry Ponsonby and H. E. the Viceroy and the Resident.

The meeting was closed with a very touching speech by the Dastur Saheb, and at his request the whole assembly, after saying prayers for the Royal Family, dispersed in silence.

SYMPATHY FROM SURAT.

The following telegram was dispatched by Khan Bahadur Davar Rustomji Khorsedji Modi, head of the community, to the Private Secretary of his Excellency the Governor, at the written desire of a numerous body of leading and other Parsee residents of Surat:—"The loyal Parsi community of Surat beg respectfully to offer their deeply felt and sincere condolence for the truly lamentable and untimely death of his Royal Highness Prince Albert Edward, Duke of Clarence and Avondale, and may God give his Imperial grandmother and the Royal Family strength to bear the heavy affliction is the humble prayer of all her loyal subjects."

RADHANPUR.

The deepest grief is manifested here by his Highness, his family, and State officers, and by all classes of the people on account of the death of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, and to-day being the funeral day all offices and schools throughout the State were closed, and 28 guns were fired from the State battery. The Durbar has gone into mourning for two weeks.

GONDAL.

All offices and schools in this State were closed on the 16th and on Wednesday out of respect to the memory of the late lamented Prince Edward Victor. The Durbar and people have gone into mourning up till 5th February. Wednesday being the Prince's funeral day all classes of Gondal subjects met in the municipal hall, to express their sense of sorrow and sympathy with the Royal Family in their sad bereavement, and unanimously passed the following resolution :—"That all classes and communities of Gondal in public meeting assembled deeply bemoan the very sad and untimely death of Prince Albert Edward Victor, Duke of Clarence and Avondale, and beg to express their sincerest sympathy and respectful sorrow to her Imperial Majesty the Empress of India, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and other members of the Royal Family, in their extremely sad bereavement.

DHARWAR.

A largely attended public meeting was held on Wednesday evening in the Native General Library, under the presidency of Mr. Venkat Rango Katti, late principal of the Training College, to express the deepest sorrow and grief felt by the whole town at the untimely death of his Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor. It was unanimously resolved that a letter of condolence to her Gracious Majesty and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales be sent. The meeting dispersed with heavy hearts.

AHMEDNAGAR.

Under the auspices of the local Sarwajanika Sabha, a large public meeting of all classes was held this evening in Anandnidhan Theatre, under the presidency of K. B. Nassarwanjee, to mourn the sad and untimely loss of the now universally-lamented Prince Victor. It was resolved that letters of condolence to Her Majesty the Empress and to Their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales be sent. An influential committee was appointed to draft letters expressing feelings of the deepest sorrow and sympathy for the Royal Family. Among those present were the American Missionaries. A few native ladies were also conspicuous. The proceedings were very solemn. The Schools and Courts were closed, and great gloom prevailed.

SAVANTVADI.

On receipt of the sad news of the death of Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence and Avondale, a large meeting of a thoroughly representative character was convened in the Kaji Shabuddin Institute. Deep and sincere sorrow was universally expressed, and resolutions to convey respectful sympathy and condolence with her gracious Majesty, their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family were unanimously adopted. All public offices and schools were closed, and twenty-eight minute guns were fired.

AMRAOTI.

A large meeting was held this evening in the library. Mr. G. S. Khaparde presided. All standing in mournful silence unanimously resolved to request the Resident of Hyderabad to kindly convey to her Imperial Majesty the Queen and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, the loyal condolence of the people of Amraoti district on the grief caused by the untimely death of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

IGATPURI.

Wednesday was observed as a day of mourning. The locomotive shops and the company's schools were closed. The Co-operative Stores were also shut for a part of the day. A special service was held in the English Church at 6 p.m., and was well attended. The organist played the Dead March in Saul at the conclusion of the service.

MANGALORE.

A deputation of influential Roman Catholic and native gentlemen, consisting of the Dewan Bahadur, Messrs. Aleixo Pinto, Nicholas Brito, Salvador Brito, Joseph Saldanha, Casmir Gonsalves, Thomas Coelho, Manuel Coelho, John Souza, Domingo Vaz, and others waited yesterday on the Collector, Mr. Brodie, to testify to the grief of the community at the sad and untimely decease of the Duke of Clarence, and to pray him to convey to Her Majesty, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and Princess May of Teck and the Royal Family, through the proper channel, the deep sorrow the community feels for the crushing affliction that has overwhelmed the Sovereign, her family, and her devoted people. The Collector kindly received the deputation and promised to submit its prayer.

AJMERE.

On the volunteer parade ground at Gorakhpur, yesterday morning, a very impressive funeral service was held by the Revd. Mr. Stern, Chaplain of the Volunteers. One hundred and twenty of the Light Horse and Rifle Volunteers formed three sides of a square, the fourth being held by the ladies of the station and officers of the Gurkha depot. Appropriate hymns were played by the Volunteer band. All the events of the Gorakhpur meet races, balls, &c., were cancelled on receipt of the news of the death of the Duke of Clarence.

At Ajmere a large meeting of all creeds and denominations was held yesterday, at which Rai Seth Chandmal presided. All expressed deep grief and sorrow for the sudden and untimely death of Prince Albert Victor. It was unanimously resolved to send the following telegram to her Majesty :—"Her Majesty's subjects in Ajmere, Rajputana, in public meeting respectfully tender their heartfelt sympathy to her Majesty, their Royal Highness the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the Royal Family for the sudden and terrible bereavement by the untimely death of His Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor in the name of the deceased Prince."

MESSAGE FROM THE QUEEN.

The following telegram was addressed to Sir Henry Ponsonby, Private Secretary to H. I. M. the Queen-Empress, by Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy :—

"The Parsee community of Bombay, assembled in their fire-temple to say prayers for the lamented Duke of Clarence, humbly beg to submit to Her Majesty and Prince and Princess of Wales their respectful condolences and dutiful sympathy."

Sir Henry Ponsonby's reply was as under :—

"The Queen thanks the Parsee community of Bombay for their kind expression of condolence with herself and family in their great sorrow."

FATAL COLLISION ON THE RAJPUTANA-MALWA RAILWAY.

A FATAL collision occurred on the Rajputana-Malwa Railway early yesterday morning, near Ajmere. Mr. F. T. Rickards, secretary to the B. B. and C. I. Railway, writes :—"I regret to have to inform you that telegraphic intimation has been received of a serious collision which took place about 4 a.m. this morning between the up-mail and a down-goods train, three miles north of the Ajmere station, between Ajmere and Madar, on the R., M. Railway. Engine driver Joseph, the native fireman, and khalassi of the goods train were killed, and driver Stone and the native fireman of the mail train were severely injured. The khalassi of the mail train was killed and the second guard of the mail train sustained a fracture of the thigh, while the head guard and two passengers were slightly, injured. The engines of both trains, six carriages and several other vehicles were seriously damaged. Immediately on the receipt of intelligence a relief train was despatched from Ajmere to carry assistance to the injured, and to bring on the passengers. The line was cleared, and communication was restored."

THE Famine Code has been put into force in the most distressed districts of the Madras Presidency within the last week. The distress was being met on "non-regulation" principles before. Mr. H. F. Clogstoun, too, has now been relieved by the other members of the Board of Revenue of all work unconnected with the distress. This practically amounts to appointing him Famine Commissioner.

THE DEATH OF H. R. H. THE DUKE OF CLARENCE.

WEDNESDAY, the funeral day of H. R. H. the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale was observed as a day of mourning in Bombay, all the public offices and places of business being closed. In the afternoon all the war ships in the harbour, which had their flags flying half-mast high, fired in succession 28 guns at intervals of a minute between each discharge. Twenty-eight minutes before sunset, the guns of the saluting battery began firing, and as the sun disappeared beneath the horizon the last minute gun was fired, the flags which had been floating half-mast high, being at the same time lowered.

COMMEMORATIVE SERVICE AT THE CATHEDRAL.

A COMMEMORATIVE service was held in St. Thomas's Cathedral on the day of the funeral of His late Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale. The service was timed to take place at half-past five in the evening, and an hour before that time every available seat in the Cathedral was occupied. A large number of chairs were placed down the aisles and those, too, were rapidly filled, whilst many who gained admittance to the church were unable to get sitting accommodation. Many found it impossible even to get into the edifice, and congregated round the windows, where they followed the service. A portion of the nave was reserved for civil officers, Members of Council, members of the University Senate, the Consuls, members of the Municipal Corporation, &c., whilst a portion of the north aisle was given for the accommodation of military officers, the naval officers and volunteer officers being seated in the south aisle and north transept. There was a large attendance of military officers from the various European and native regiments of the station, also nearly the whole of the Staff officers. Officers from all Her Majesty's war vessels in harbour appeared in full dress, and officers of the Bombay Light Horse, Bombay Artillery Volunteers, Bombay Rifle Volunteers, and Railway Volunteers were largely represented. The members of the Civil Service included Sir Raymond West and Sir Charles Pritchard, and the Consuls present represented all European Nations. Most of the clergy of the city were also present. His Excellency the Governor of Bombay arrived at the Cathedral at half past five. His Excellency was accompanied by Her Excellency Lady Harris, and Miss Croft, and the members of staff in attendance were Colonel F. Rhodes, Military Secretary, Capt. the Hon. St. Leger Jervis, A. D. C., Capt. Fowle, A. D. C., Mr. Edgerley, Private Secretary, and Dr. Martin. When the opening voluntary "I know that my Redeemer liveth" was commenced, the congregation was one of the largest and most representative that has ever assembled in the Cathedral. His Excellency and Staff were received and conducted to their seats by the senior Presidency Chaplain, the Rev. F. N. Hill. The service commenced punctually at half-past five o'clock, the choir headed by the Cross bearer proceeded into the church singing the solemn and beautiful processional hymn., "Surely He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows." Following the choir were the Rev. Fathers Black and Gardner, Bro. Beale, Rev. F. N. Hill, Rev. A. Y. Browne, the Venerable Archdeacon W. E. Scott, and the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Bombay. After prayers the congregation sang Psalm XC Domine refugium ; the Bishop read the lesson from the 1st Thess. IV. 13. Prayers selected from the service for the burial of the dead followed, and at the termination the hymn "The souls of the righteous are in the hands of God and there shall no torment touch them," was sung. The following special prayers were then said :—

"Hear us, O Almighty and merciful God and Saviour ; extend thy accustomed goodness to Thy servant who in his hour of bodily weakness hath been called by Thee to stand in the direct line of succession to the throne of this Empire. Sanctify, we beseech Thee, this Thy fatherly correction to him ; that the sense of his weakness may add strength to his faith, and seriousness to his repentance : that if it shall be Thy good pleasure to restore him to his former health, he may undertake the great work of his life in Thy fear and to Thy glory : through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

"O Almighty Lord, who art a most strong tower to all them that put their trust in Thee, to whom all things in earth do bow and obey, be now and evermore the defence of our beloved Queen-Empress and all the Royal Family : and make them know and feel that there is none other name under heaven, given to man, in whom and through whom they may receive comfort and salvation, but only the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen."

Grant, O Lord, we beseech thee, that the course of this world may be so peaceably ordered by the governance that thy Church may joyfully serve thee in godly quietness ; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Mr. Mant, the Cathedral organist, then played, with accompaniment by the drums of the Yorkshire Regiment, Handel's "Dead March in Saul," whilst the congregation remained standing. The drum accompaniment was the same as that which was given at the rendering of the march at Colaba Church on Sunday last, and added greatly to the solemnity of Handel's music. The benediction was said, and the service terminated at six o'clock by the choir retiring singing the recessional hymn, "Here we have no continuing city, but we seek one to come.' The Bishop read the lessons and said the benediction, and the Rev. F. N. Hill the rest of the service. The congregation left to the final voluntary of Mendelsohn's posthumous funeral March.

MEETING IN THE TOWN HALL.

In the afternoon, at half-past three o'clock a meeting was held in the Town Hall, at which the Bishop of Bombay presided, for the purpose of passing resolutions sympathising with her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress, H. R. H. the Prince and Princess of Wales, H. R. H. Princess Mary of Teck, and the other members of the Royal Family in their bereavement caused by the sad death of H. R. H. the Duke of Clarence and Avondale. The Hall was crowded with sympathisers representing every section of the community, most of whom were dressed in mourning. The public, indeed, came forward in such large numbers, that standing room was scarcely to be had, every door being blocked with people, anxious to join in the proceedings, and give their assent to the resolutions of condolence. Among those present were :—

Lord Bishop of Bombay ; H. H. the Rao of Cutch ; Prince Samutsingjee of Palitana ; Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, Bart., C.S.I. ; the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Bayley ; Hon'ble Mr. Justice Telang ; Mr. P. M. Vakil, Charu Baba, &c.

The Sheriff of Bombay took the chair at the outset, and addressing the meeting, said:—In compliance with the requisition from the leading citizens of Bombay, I have convened this public meeting, and before its business is proceeded with, I beg to say on behalf of myself and family as well as on behalf of my community that we deeply and sincerely sympathise with our Gracious Queen-Empress and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Royal Family, on the sad and premature death of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale. I now declare this meeting open, and call upon you to elect your chairman.

Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy then moved, and the Hon. Mr. Justice Bayley seconded, the proposal that the Right Reverend the Bishop of Bombay should take the chair, which was unanimously agreed to.

The Chairman said:—Mr. Sheriff and fellow-citizens, It is a great honour on an occasion like this, to be asked to preside over the acts of one's fellow-citizens. I think I can best show my sense of the honour conferred on me by confining myself strictly to the functions of a chairman, that is to say, by merely making a few introductory remarks, and not trenching by anticipation upon the ground to be covered by other speakers in moving, seconding, and supporting, the resolutions to be put before you. I think that first I ought to tell you how this meeting came to be summoned. We have a representative body in Bombay—our Municipal Corporation—and that body has already done its duty in passing a resolution in which we all sympathise. Yet there are some duties which I think everybody feels cannot be done by delegation, even to the best of delegates. It is one's own heart that sympathises, and therefore, naturally one desires that one's own voice should speak. This is true of individuals; it is true also of a great community like our city of Bombay. A few of us, therefore, felt that this was an occasion on which the citizens of Bombay would desire to speak with their own mouths, and we called together a few others to consult with us as to whether this was the case or not. The Chamber of Commerce kindly placed their rooms at our disposal, and a meeting was held there, which resulted in the requisition of which the Sheriff has just told you. At the same time a small representative, committee was formed to organize this meeting. Very naturally our first thought was, should we ask his Excellency the Governor to preside over this meeting; but we found his Excellency's opinion was that a more perfectly spontaneous expression of feeling would be the result if he, as the official representative of the Royal Family, did not himself take part in it; though he assured us of his entire sympathy with our object. Sir Charles Sargent, whose dignified presence has so often graced the chair on former occasions of this sort, also thought it would be well that some one should preside whose relations with his fellow-citizens were less strictly official than his own—and you see the result. The next thing was to consider the exact conduct of the meeting, and the resolutions to be proposed. One resolution would have expressed all that was needed; but still we thought it would be better to break up that resolution into two; which we have done. The first will give expression to our sympathy, and the second will direct that that expression of sympathy be forwarded to the Secretary of State for India, for the favour of transmission to her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and other members of the Royal Family. Then came the question of selecting speakers to move, second, and support these resolutions. Any meeting in Bombay, which is adequately to represent this town, must include a large number of different communities; and so our first care was go to select the speakers, and so to divide the work and the honour on this occasion as that every community might feel that it was represented. Our task, then, was to put before ourselves, who were the members of the several communities who either by career, or by vote, formal or informal, had been made representative men of their own communities. I hope that, as I have to call upon the different speakers, you will all agree that we have succeeded in choosing men to address you on that principle. Of course, on such an occasion as this it must sometimes happen that people may feel on behalf of their friends, "I wish that such an one had been included in the list of speakers," but I hope you will all believe that we did our best, and that it was impossible to ask more speakers than we have. I may also add that in inviting the several gentlemen to address you we took the liberty of suggesting that we should all confine our remarks strictly within limits of time. At 5-30 his Excellency will be waiting in the Cathedral, and I must be there to meet him, to begin the service. But everybody who speaks and listens will feel that on an occasion like this, when every speaker simply expresses the mind of his fellow citizens, it is easy to say what he will have to say in few words. When a speaker feels that his audience, or any part of it, is not entirely with him, it is, of course, necessary that he should develop his points at length, and exercise all his powers of persuasion to bring them over to his own mind. But is there any one here present who is not of one mind on this occasion? Therefore, can it be necessary to do more than merely put into words what all of you have in your minds? Again supposing that a speaker thought that the feelings of his hearers were not wrought up to the proper pitch, it might be necessary for him to make an effort to bring them all up to the level of his own warm emotion; but, again I think that very little is wanted in that way to-day. Our Gracious Majesty has been for over 54 years the universal sympathiser with her people in their griefs, and therefore I think that little is wanted to-day to bring our sympathy with our Gracious Sovereign up to the point which we all wish that it should reach. To whatever creed or community we belong, to one Lady in the empire at any rate, we never can be foreigners: she loves us all alike, and therefore all of us, to whatever race we belong, are Britons in personal devotion to that gracious Lady and her House. With these few introductory words in which I have been careful not to trespass on the ground to be occupied by others, I call upon the Hon. Mr. Justice Telang to move the first resolution.

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Telang said: My Lord Bishop, Ladies and Gentlemen,—The duty devolves upon me of moving one of the two resolutions to which his Lordship has referred in his introductory remarks. That resolution runs as follows:—"That we, the inhabitants of Bombay of every creed and community in public meeting assembled, desire to convey to her Gracious Majesty our Queen-Empress, to T. R. Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Princess May, and to all the Royal Family, the expression of our respectful sympathy in the bereavement which has fallen on their illustrious house (and on the Empire at large) by the lamented death of his late Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale." I am confident, my Lord, that the reasons which you have stated render it quite unnecessary that I should bestow any laboured advocacy upon the resolution, the terms of which I have just read to the meeting. Since the sad news of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence and Avondale's death was telegraphed to this city, we have all of us seen personally, and by such other means as have been open to us, the feeling which has been roused in the whole community, not merely of this city, but of the whole Empire by that sad news. We know from the newspapers and other sources of information that there is a real, genuine, and strong feeling of sympathy with her Gracious Majesty and the Royal Family in the sad bereavement which has fallen not only on them, but the whole of the British Empire. In this land, it is only natural that we should feel most keenly and poignantly the sorrowful event which has occurred, because it was only about two years ago that the Prince, who was then in the enjoyment of full, vigour of health and youth was in the midst of us, taking part in those festive scenes which were provided by the loyalty of the citizens of Bombay. When we call back to mind those scenes, which are still fresh in our memory, we cannot but contrast them with the solemn proceedings, which, I suppose, are even now being enacted or are about to be enacted in the Royal Chapel in England. This contrast includes not merely the past and the present but also the future. We cannot at the present moment keep our minds away from the thought of that other event to which her Majesty's subjects in the whole Empire were looking forward with pleasant anticipations, namely, his Royal Highness's marriage with Princess May of Teck. These contrasts necessarily make our sorrow extremely keen We can imagine from the sorrow which we feel, what must be the sorrow of those to whom the Prince was so near and dear, the sorrow of the Queen, our venerable Queen, with her affectionate and warm heart, the sorrow of the gracious mother of the Prince and the Princess of Wales, and also the sorrow of the young Princess from whom the cup of happiness has been so cruelly snatched away by the hand of death. As loyal and affectionate subjects of her Majesty, we all participate in the sorrow which the Royal Family are just now feeling, and it is but proper that we, in the midst of that sorrow, should give expression to the loyal and respectful sympathy which we all of us feel for the Queen-Empress, a sympathy which I am sure is participated in not merely by the city of Bombay and the Indian Empire of her Gracious Majesty the Queen, but by the whole of that Empire on which the sun never sets, and I think I may add, by the whole of the civilized world.

Mr. P. M. Mehta seconded the resolution, saying:—In rising to support this resolution, I may venture to assert that there is no exaggeration in saying that the grievous news of the death of Prince Albert Victor has thrown the whole Empire into mourning and lamentation. It is said that "God's ordinance of death is blown in every wind," but seldom has that ordnance carried more widespread, more unaffected, more profound grief and sorrow than when with appalling and unrelenting suddenness it struck down the young Prince on the very threshold of a career full of the brightest hope and promise, just as he was entering it in the midst of universal and heartfelt rejoicing. That universal joy is now changed into universal woe. The Lord Bishop has referred to the numerous communities making this city. But Hindoos and Mahomedans, Parsees and Christians, high and low, rich and poor, whatever we may be, we are all one to-day. Britons all as the chairman said, in the passionate wail which bursts from every heart from one end of the country to the other at so heart-rending and tragic a calamity. We never feel the feebleness of words so much as on an occasion like this. From the Viceroy downwards, every one in the country, every city in the Empire, is striving to put into words their measureless grief and their unbounded sympathy. But how miserably inadequate it all seems to what we would fain pour out, of all that we feel for those overwhelmed with so great a sorrow. It is idle and futile, it seems to me, to invade their holy woe with unavailing words of condolence and consolation. Let us only supplicate to be allowed to mourn along with them, with the stricken parents, so beloved and honored amongst us, with the desolate bride, almost "widowed wife and married maid," with that august lady, our Sovereign, whose thousand claims to reverence have quickened our loyalty with a profound personal sentiment of the deepest attachment of veneration. For the young Prince himself, cut off in the very blossom of his youth, who so lately moved amongst us, winning all hearts by the gentleness of his manners.

"Not with half disdain, hid under grace,
But kindly man moving amongst his kind,"

we can only pray,

"Sleep sweetly, tender heart, in peace:
Sleep, holy spirit, blessed soul,
While the stars burn, the moons increase,
And the great ages onward roll,
Sleep till the end, true soul and sweet."

Mr. Budroodin Tyebjee, in supporting the resolution, said:—My Lord Bishop, and Gentlemen,—Though the resolution which has just been moved in such feeling and eloquent terms by my friend, Mr. Telang, requires no support from me, I yet deem it my duty to say a few words on behalf of the Mussalman community to which I have the honour to belong. Gentlemen, the Mussalman community of India, in common with the rest of her Majesty's subjects, have received the sad news of the untimely death of H. R. H. the Duke of Clarence with feelings of the profoundest grief and sorrow. His Royal Highness and his illustrious father, the Prince of Wales, and his still more illustrious grand-mother, the Queen-Empress have so endeared themselves to the people by their many virtues, that it is no wonder that the heart of the nation has been stirred by the premature death of the heir to the throne of England to its profoundest depths. When we remember that his Royal Highness was among us only a short time ago in the full bloom of life, in the vigour of youth and health, and in the prospect of a long, happy, and exalted career, it is indeed difficult to believe that he is no more. But, gentlemen, if such is the feeling of grief in our minds, if the mere fact of the death of a Prince under such melancholy circumstances produces such feelings of sorrow in our mind—what must be the grief of those who claimed him as their nearest and dearest, and to whom his presence was like the sun shine of life. Gentlemen, the ties that bind the people to her Majesty the Queen are not merely those of duty and loyalty, but of love and affection. Her Majesty has always proved herself not merely the Queen, but the mother of the nation. If any part of the Empire—no matter how remote—or how insignificant—was suddenly afflicted with some great calamity, the Queen was the first to send soothing messages of love, sympathy and condolence. If there was cause for rejoicings, hers were the first congratulations to arrive. In short, the nation's grief is her grief, their joy her joy. Conversely then, gentlemen, is it not our duty to do what we can in this dire hour of sorrow and grief by our humble but most profound and sincere sympathy, and condolence to mitigate the severity of the blow that has fallen upon the whole Royal Family, with the suddenness and the shock of a thunderbolt from a clear and cloudless sky?

Mr. George Cotton, who also spoke in support of the resolution, said—My Lord Bishop and Gentlemen,—I think it unnecessary for me to say much in support of the resolution so feelingly moved by the Hon. Mr. Justice Telang and spoken to by Mr. Metha and Mr. Tyebjee as I am sure the resolution correctly conveys that profound and respectful sympathy which not only every one at this meeting, but everyone in Bombay, feels for her most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress and T. R. H. the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Royal Family. My Lord Bishop and Gentlemen, who can help but feel deep grief, deep sorrow, and deep sympathy when we have in mind that only two years ago we welcomed the young Prince who came to see for himself the Empire of nations, over which we hoped and thought he would one day rule; who can help but feel deep grief, deep sorrow, and sympathy when we remember the young Prince looking so happy in his handsome Hussar uniform, and who in feelingly speaking of his Royal father's visit, told us that he felt himself amongst friends; who can help but feel deep grief, sorrow, and sympathy when we remember how appreciative the Prince was of the efforts made by the city of Bombay to make his sojourn enjoyable and pleasant, and who can help but feel the deepest sorrow and sympathy for the English Princess who a short time ago was looking forward to a life of love and happiness and opportunities of doing on a more extended scale those many acts of kindness which our papers tell us she is so fond of doing in her own house? Let us trust and pray that the dark cloud of sorrow now overshadowing the Royal Family may be pierced by the spontaneous sympathy of the whole Empire, and that the sorrow of her Majesty the Queen-Empress may be solaced by the sympathy of her people, who love to share her sorrow, knowing that their beloved Sovereign is always full of affection and loving care of even the humblest of her subjects.

The chairman having put to the meeting the resolution, which was carried unanimously, said he had received a telegram from Sir Diashaw Manookjee Petit expressing his regret at his inability to be present at the meeting as follows:—"Very sorry, cannot attend the meeting, but I deeply sympathise with the object of the meeting."

Mr. Grattan Geary, who was called upon to move the second resolution, said:—My Lord Bishop and Gentlemen,—I beg to move the following resolution:—"That the chairman of this meeting be requested to transmit by telegraph to her Majesty's Secretary of State for India for the favour of submission to Her Majesty the Queen-Empress and the Royal Family the resolution which has just been passed." This sorrowful message of deepest sympathy to our beloved Sovereign and the bereaved Royal Family will be but a faint indication of the depth and intensity of the grief which saddens the whole community especially at this hour, when the mortal remains of the young Prince, who was among us recently, are being laid in the tomb. Would that those words, which will outstrip the sun in its course, and be heard in England before the grave closes over him might carry some consolation to the Mother of the Empire, and the Mother of him who has been taken! For the Queen the prayer goes up in India, "May all love, the love of all thy people comfort thee," We desire that the same message and the same consolation, however inadequate, may be conveyed to the Mother of the dead Prince in this trying hour. Nor can we forget one who is also in great sorrow and equal need of sympathy, the young Princess whose orange blossoms the hand of death has in an instant turned to cypress. To the Prince of Wales, who has been so sorely tried, we send this message. An affectionate father, it has been his inscrutable fate, while the anxieties for his youngest son are scarce allayed, to see his eldest-born laid low in a moment by a ruthless epidemic. How pathetic are the lines wrung from Tennyson under a similar dispensation when his son was stricken down. "Mine not to question why, The sons before the father die!" But if the sorrow be great, the mourning is universal. An Empire which girdles the world is united to-day in the same sentiment of loyalty and affectionate sympathy for the Queen and the Royal Family, which has brought together thousands of men of every race and creed in this building. We can all join in the consoling words addressed by the Laureate to the Queen when bowed down by another great grief thirty years ago:—

"Break not O woman's heart, but still endure!
Break not, for thou art Royal, but endure!
May the love of all Thy people comfort thee!"

Mr. E. D. Sassoon, who seconded the resolution said:—It is with a heavy heart that I rise to second the resolution, which has been so eloquently and sympathetically proposed by Mr. Grattan Geary. The sad and untimely bereavement just sustained by her Majesty and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, has been felt as a personal loss by all sections of the community, who vie with each other in their desire to express at the same time their loyalty and their sorrow. The proposal to send a telegram of sympathy and condolence in the name of the whole of the inhabitants of this city is one that cannot but meet with universal approbation, and requires no recommendation from me to ensure its adoption.

The resolution was put to the meeting and carried.

Mr. Sorabjee Shapurjee Bengalee proposed a vote of thanks to the Sheriff for calling the meeting.

The Hon. Mr. Javerilal U. Yajnik, said:—The short notice at which the meeting had been called, entitled the Sheriff to their thanks, and he had much pleasure in seconding the motion, which was carried.

The Hon. Mr. L. R. W. Forrest said:—While acknowledging the kindness of the Lord Bishop of Bombay in consenting to take the chair at this meeting, I think we all feel that it is very appropriate that he, the head of that large body of men to whom many of us Europeans turn in the hour of sorrow and distress for comfort and consolation, should preside on an occasion like this. We thank his Lordship and the other speakers who have so eloquently expressed our sentiments, and I hope that the thanks of this meeting be given to the Lord Bishop of Bombay for presiding on this occasion. I feel confident that her Majesty and the members of the Royal Family will value the resolutions he has passed, and I trust that this memorial fraught of words of loyal respect and sympathy, tendered reverentially by the people of this city, will arrive in time to be laid, so to speak, on the bier of the Prince, to whom had he been spared, belonged the noble inheritance of the Crown of the British Empire.

Dr. Da Gama seconded the motion, which was also carried.

The Chairman said in reply:—I thank you for the kindly expression of your feeling, and I would just assure you again, it has been to me not merely a great honour, but a pleasure to be called upon to preside at this meeting.

The proceedings then terminated.

PULPIT REFERENCES.

Rev. C. F. de Souza, the Vicar of Cavel, referred on Sunday last to the death of the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale at the Conventional Mass. He said, the gospel of this Sunday narrates the miracle performed by Jesus Christ of turning water into wine at the request of Mary, his mother. The request was promised by two high motives viz., love and gratitude towards the host at whose house Mary and her son were entertained. The gospel of to-day and the coincidence of the lamented death of the young Prince ought to inspire the congregation with the same noble sentiments of showing love to the departed Prince by praying for the repose of his soul and our gratitude to the Queen-Empress and the British Government for the paternal protection extended over all the Indian people. The Catholic religion, he remarked, was the universal religion, in its conception embracing humanity at large without any distinction, and the congregation ought to be animated with the same feelings as Mary was at the wedding at Canaa on giving practical proofs of these two virtues to the English nation in their hour of sorrow and affliction. His feeble voice he said, would be drowned in the immensity of the sympathy and manifestations of grief that would be offered to the Royal family of England. This, however, ought not to deter them from contributing their insignificant mite of consolation to the sorrowing royal family which is at this moment bemoaning the loss of the future King of England.

EXPRESSION OF JEWISH SYMPATHY.

On Saturday, at the old Beni-Israel Synagogue in Samuel Street, after reading the prescribed portions of the Scripture for the day, Mr. Joseph Ezekiel, J. P., referred to the sad news of the untimely death of His Royal Highness Prince Albert Victor (The Duke of Clarence) who departed this life in the flower of his youth; and said that the Prince was not only beloved to the people of England, but by the visit that he had paid two years ago he had gained the good-will and affection also of all the people of India. Mr. Ezekiel further said, that a heavy calamity had befallen the Empress, the Prince and Princess of Wales and to his betrothed, and the whole congregation seemed to feel much grieved at the sad tidings. In conclusion a prayer was offered that the soul of the departed may rest in peace with its Creator, and the Almighty may grant consolation to the beteaved grandmother, parents, the betrothed, and the whole family.

The following telegram was despatched to General Ponsonby on Wednesday:—

"Sassoons and Bombay Jewish community beg to offer sincere and respectful condolence to Her Majesty and Prince and Princess of Wales on their irreparable loss."

The following reply was received by Mr. Sassoon from Osborne:

"Queen thanks you and Jewish community for condolence."

A special prayer was offered yesterday afternoon at all the synagogues in Bombay for the repose of the soul of the late Duke of Clarence, and for the preservation from all ills of Her Majesty the Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales and the other members of the Royal Family.

PRAYERS BY THE PARSEES.

At the invitation of Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, Bart., C. S. I., the Parsee communtiy of Bombay assembled on Wednesday afternoon last at their principal fire-temple, the Wadia fire-temple, situated on the Girgaum Road, to offer up prayers in connection with the death of H. R. H. the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale. Shums-ul-Ulama Dustoor Peshotun Byramjee Sanjana and a large number of Parsee priests took part in the prayers, which were first begun in an inner room, where the sacred fire is "enthroned," and were continued afterwards in the large outer hall before a large censer containing sacred fire, round which the congregation were assembled.

After prayer, Shums-ul-Ulama Dustoor Peshotun, in addressing the assembly, expressed the feelings of sorrow on the part of the community at the premature death of so good and noble a Prince as the Duke of Clarence and Avondale. In very pathetic terms he dilated upon the sad calamity which had fallen on Her Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress and the Royal Family, and most strongly urged on the members of the community the necessity, according to the usages and precepts of their religion, "to respect our good rulers, to obey them, to help them, to rejoice in their joys and sympathise with them in their sorrows." Zoroastrian theology and philosophy taught them to respect and obey any "virtuous and just foreign rulers" as they would a sovereign professing their own religion. It was the bounden duty, therefore, of every Parsee, to whom nothing was more clear and precious than the loyalty and fealty to the British Crown, to sympathise with their Queen-Mother in the sad calamity which had befallen her and her Royal Family. With pure and grateful hearts and uplifted hands, they must all pray that their Queen-Mother, under whose benign sway they had risen and prospered so much, and above all under whose august sovereignty they enjoyed the protection of their faith, be endowed by the great Architect of the Universe with courage, fortitude, and patience to bear the loss, the magnitude of which could more be imagined than felt. The fire that was kept burning in the censer before the assembly was the emblem of the light of heaven, and before that fire they must all earnestly solicit and pray to the Almighty Ahura Mazda, that he might grant a peaceful repose to the spirit of the Royal Prince in the eternal abode of paradise. May the deceased Prince rest there in peace and quiet, ever helping in spirit towards the welfare and well-being of that vast and mighty kingdom of which, had he lived, he would have become a very able and a very popular ruler.

The congregation then offered up a special prayer which the Dustoor had composed, and printed copies of which had been distributed among those present. It consisted of the opening verse, of the third or Gatha Sapantomaynius and a Zend text. These had been selected with the view of beseeching the Lord of Hosts to grant health and happiness, good repute, and the virtue and strength of a good mind to the gracious Queen-Mother and the members of the Royal Family in this dire affliction; and of supplicating Providence for "a place in the paradise of the good" for the soul of the deceased Prince. In summoning away the prince from this transient world, the Omnipotent Will had given clear indication of a desire to save him from the trials of an earthly existence and to bestow upon him the eternal boon of heavenly happiness. After invoking the archangels and angels to guard the Prince's spirit from harm, the prayer ended with beseeching the continuance of the safety and prosperity, the Zoroastrian community enjoyed under the rule of Her Majesty the Queen-Empress.

Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, in addressing the meeting, said he thanked those present very heartily for promptly responding to his invitation to attend on this mournful occassion. He was fully aware that the feeling of grief at the sad occurence, which was evident in those present, was shared not only by the Parsees of this city, but also their co-religionists throughout the whole Empire. Their community was conscious of the fact that the destinies of this country were linked with those of the British Government, and that their joys and sorrows were allied to those of Her Majesty the Queen-Empress. The misfortune which had on this occasion fallen upon Her Majesty was as sudden as it was vast in its magnitude and painful in its character—the death of the young Duke of Clarence and Avondale, who only a short time ago honoured them with a visit, and who by his great intelligence, courtsey, sympathetic suavity, and polished manners at once won the hearts of the people of this country, and who was to be married next month to an English Princess, who was his equal in intelligence and the qualities of heart that commanded esteem and respect. His untimely death had thrown his aged grandmother, his good parents, and his fiancee into deep mourning, in which the Indian nation fully shared. Every day we see death at its cruel work everywhere around us; and yet, whenever it occurs, it shocks and takes us by surprise, especially in an instance like the present, in which a young, happy, good-natured Prince like H. R. H. the Duke of Clarence and Avondale is snatched away in the full bloom of youth, and on the very threshold of a happy wedded life with a noble Princess. But we must bow our heads with resignation to the decrees of Providence, and pray to God to take the soul of our beloved Prince under his special protection and care, and grant it eternal and perfect peace. May the Lord grant Her Majesty the Queen-Empress, and T. R. H. the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the young Princess May, whose hopes and aspirations have been nipped in the bud by the cruel hand of death, and the rest of the Royal Family, all strength and power of body and mind to bear with fortitude and patience the cruel blow which has fallen upon them.

The chairman then read a note received from Dr. Dustoor Jamaspjee Menocherjee Jamaspasana, expressing regret at his unavoidable absence and his sympathy with the object of the meeting.

Dr. Cowasjee Hormusjee proposed that Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy, as the head of the Parsee community, be authorised to forward, on behalf of the community, a message of condolence to Her Majesty the Queen-Empress.

Dustoor Peskotum seconded the proposition, which was unanimously agreed to, and the proceedings terminated.

Wednesday being the day of the funeral of H. R. H. the late Prince Albert Victor, the Bombay Piece-Goods Market was closed in respect for his memory.

The Cercle Litteraire, Bibliotheque Dinshaw Petit, was closed on Wednesday on the occasion of the funeral of His Royal Highness the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale.

Out of respect to the memory of the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale, the Mooljibhoy Jewraj Khoja General Residing Room and library was closed on Wednesday.

VIVISECTION IN HYDERABAD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—I shall feel obliged if you will be so good as to publish the enclosed correspondence. As I have told the lady, who has been good enough to address me on the subject of vivisection, that I would do the utmost in my power to oppose her views, and this seems to be the best way of carrying out my promise.—Yours, &c.

Jan. 19. J. D. B. GRIBBLE.

To J. D. B. Gribble, Esq., C.S.,
95, Onslow Square, South Kensington, S. W.,
Dec. 24, 1891.

Dear Sir,—May I be permitted, although a stranger, to name to you a subject of importance both to India generally, and I might say, especially to Hyderabad? The enclosed letter which I have addressed to the leading Editors in that land will fully explain my object. Should I be so fortunate as to gain your sympathy, might I ask for it to be exerted upon a paper published at Hyderabad, which I understand you control?

Let me repeat what I have already named in the general letter, namely, the entire absence of any personal motive on my part, no result could prove of any advantage to a perfectly independent English lady; but I have long watched with dismay the stealthy progress of vivisection in our own land, and it seems to me the climax of horrors when, by M. Pasteur's system, animals are deliberately and continuously maddened by vivisection, and each victim is allowed to linger in rabies to the bitter end. It was an exceeding relief to me both to hear and to satisfy myself, as case after case occurred, that hydrophobia can be, and is cured, by vapour baths; and on finding that a Pasteur Institute had been proposed in India, where baths are so accessible, I have resolved to try and make the safe and scientific substitute well known. May I again earnestly entreat your aid? It is possible that you may approve of vivisection in general. I hope not; but even so—when we are able to show a proved and humane remedy for hydrophobia—surely I may depend upon your ready help.

I see also with deep regret by the Bombay Gazette of November 28th, that Mr. Langdon Brown, of the London Hospital, is coming to Hyderabad to recommence experiments as to chloroform, which means death by torture to hundreds of monkeys and dogs, while everyone knows that Dr. Lauder Brunton's similar experiments did nothing to reconcile the two opposing parties.

I ask you, as an Englishman, what right have we to introduce such practices into India? The bulk of the natives, who clearly knowing what is done, must feel both horror and disgust at such doings. Is it wise to outrage even superstitions which better protect God's creatures than our boasted civilisation? I know not how far as conquerors we may be able to make them submit, or endure, and finally—be as callous as ourselves, but I tremble for the solemn responsibility thus incurred by my own dear land. Forgive my intrusion, and believe me faithfully yours,

ANN MARSTON.

Hyderabad, 19th Jan.

Madam,—I am in receipt of your letter of 24th December, and regret to inform you that the paper which belonged to me has, for some time, ceased to exist. There is, at present, no paper in Hyderabad at all.

As regards the efficacy of the vapour baths for hydrophobia, if ever I am bitten by a mad dog, I should certainly resort to Pasteur's cure instead of trusting to a vapour bath; and I should not, therefore, feel justified in advising others to adopt a contrary course.

I think it only right to tell you that I entirely disagree with your opinions about vivisection. I was present during a great number of the experiments made by the Hyderabad Chloroform Commission, and know as a fact that they were absolutely painless. Not one of the animals operated on had the slightest sensation of pain, and the experiment finished, it passed over into an easy and beautiful death. I only hope that my own death will be as pleasant.

As for the good done, I also disagree with you. I consider that the results of this commission prove incontestably that chloroform can be administered without the least danger to life. This is a benefit to mankind so incalculable in extent, that even if it had been obtained by causing pain the good would have outweighed the harm. As, however, this was not the case, I consider those persons who try to prevent further experiments taking place to be obstructors of good and stiflers of truth.

I regret, therefore, that I can do nothing to further your views. On the contrary I shall do all in my power to oppose them, and remain.—Yours faithfully

J. D. B. GRIBBLE.

THE B. B. AND C. I. VOLUNTEER CAMP AT AJMERE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

AJMERE, JAN. 19.

AJMERE as the central station on the Rajputana Malwa Railway has again had the honor of being selected as the station for the annual camp-of-exercise of the Second Battalion B. B. and C. I. Railway Volunteers. The interest with which these camps have hitherto been regarded has been fully maintained, the men entering most thoroughly into the spirit of the thing, and both in their soldierly submission to proper military discipline, and in their uncomplaining acceptance of arrangements made for their messing and shelter, have shown their readiness to be in deed as well as in name, true members of her Majesty's auxiliary forces.

Ajmere, this year, is passing through a period of very great depression, the failure of last season's rains and crops, the drying up of the lak and most of our wells, has brought about a state of distress bordering on famine which is new to most of us; and in consequence of this state of affairs some doubts had been expressed whether it was advisable to have the camp at all. The muster has, however, been good throughout and compares favourably with former years. In 1889, 1890 and 1891, the number of men actually under canvas was 155, 157 and 174, respectively, this year there were 177. Attendance at Battalion Parades averaged 266 against 240, 201, and 204 in the three previous years, and the turn-out at the general inspection was 270 as against 270, 223 and 207 in 1891, 1890 and 1889. Musketry qualifications have also been fully up to the mark, but owing to the changed conditions of the annual course, it is not possible to compare this year's performances with those of previous years. Major Gutersloh was in command throughout the week owing to the absence of Colonel Blood. Colonel Bisset arrived in Ajmere on Wednesday morning, was present on that morning's parade and, subsequently, attended at all parades and rifle practices, himself competing in the All Comers' Match.

The real work of the camp commenced on Monday morning, and the programme arranged, whilst providing for amusements, was calculated to give the men as much real instruction as could be compressed into a week. For purposes of drill and administration, the battalion was told off into four camp companies, efforts being made to keep each company of the Corps intact under its own officer; and when more than one company had to be amalgamated, to combine those companies, which coming from the same district, might be expected to have had occasional opportunities of drilling together.

The regular daily routine of the camp was—reveille at 6-30a.m., Commanding officer's parade in serge clothing at 8 a.m., Musketry competition 11-3 a.m., and parade in khaki at 4-30 p.m. As the morning parade was rarely dismissed before half-past nine, and the target practice usually lasted till three or four in the afternoon, the hours of daylight were fully occupied. All ranks, however, displayed the greatest zeal and willingness and cheerfully performed the duties arranged for them. The morning parades were invariably devoted to steady battalion movements and manual and firing exercises, whilst the evening parades in khaki were of a more practical nature, comprising skirmishing and the attack practice. Every effort was made to encourge company and section commanders to command independently and intelligently, to take advantage of cover and maintain fire discipline; and it was gratifying that at the conclusion of the week the inspecting officer particularly remarked on the improvement he noted in skirmishing and fire discipline.

At the inspection parade punctually at 8 a.m. on the 15th, Colonel Cuningham, commanding Nusseerabad Brigade, arrived on the parade ground, and was received by the battalion, which had previously been drawn up in line at open order, with a general salute. The salute was steadily given, and Colonel Cuningham having inspected the line took up his position at the saluting flag for the battalion to march past. The march past in column was very creditably performed, after which the battalion marched past in quarter column with trailed arms, and subsequently at the double. Line having been formed on the old alignment, Major Harvey was called to the front and put the battalion through the manual and firing exercise which was a satisfactory performance. Major Gutersloh then resumed command, and put the battalion through several movements by which the battalion advanced in column from the right, changed direction, deployed to the left, retired in fours from the right of companies, closed to quarter column on No. 1, halted and fronted. Major Harvey was again called to the front, and the quarter column having formed line to the left on the rear company, a change of front was effected, and the battalion having again formed quarter column advanced, deployed again, and then performed some movements in direct echelon. Companies were then separated, and company movements, attack, and skirmishing practice by junior officers and by candidates for certificates of proficiency brought the drill to a conclusion. After this Colonel Cuningham having called the officers to the front addressed the battalion, and a hollow square having been formed, presented the prizes to the winners at the recent meetings.

In his remarks to the men the Inspecting Officer said that he was pleased to meet them again after another year of practice and training in their important duties, and was happy to inform them he should be able to give a favourable report on the state of the Battalion. He considered a marked improvement was apparent since he had last inspected them, The men looked well, moved smartly, were attentive and orderly in ranks, and showed an intelligent interest in what they were doing, which was commendable. From what he had heard and had seen in the newspapers, he was glad to find their reputation for good shooting had been maintained, and he congratulated them on having secured a good number of prizes both at Meerut and at other meetings.

He specially invited their attention to the importance of fire discipline, and in this connection had been glad to see improvement—their movements in skirmishing and in the attack formations, were creditable. He urged that the most careful attention should be paid to training in volley and squad firing. The standard of efficiency was ranking higher year by year, and pains bestowed on this part of their duties would, certainly, result in the enhancement of their reputation as a good shooting regiment.

The Battalion Cup Competition was decided in favour of Lieutenant Findlay, who, as the oldest competitor on the ground, was heartily cheered on the attainment of his victory. This old Crimean and Mutiny warrior is deservedly popular, and his success on this occasion so forcibly brings to mind the lines of an old poet that I hope to be forgiven for quoting them:—

"Time had not dimmed his steadfast eye,
Nor age his nerve undone;
He fired as in the days gone by
When he made the rebel gunners fly
And silenced the foeman's gun."

Captain Goodwin's Company (B) takes the Oodepur Cup for the ensuing year with the fine score of 529 points, being 15 points ahead of last year's score.

Captain Reynold's Company (D) retains for the second year in succession, possession of the Hutchinson Challenge Cup.

The N. R. A. Medal was won by Segt. Burge. The B. P. R. A. Silver Medal for Local Meetings and B. P. R. A. Bronze Medal were won by Segt. Finnigan, for details of other prizes amounting to Rs. 4,045 in all, our readers must await the published details of the Meeting which will follow in due course. We may add that the competiton for the Inter-Battalion Prize has not yet been finally decided; the last stage, it is understood, will be fired on one of the 1st Battalion ranges at an early date.

After the distribution of prizes, three cheers were given for Colonel Cuningham and Colonel Bisset, C.I.E., R. E., and the men were dismissed to breakf

THE GENERAL OF THE JESUITS.

THE late Father-General of the Society of Jesus, the Very Rev. Maria Anthony Anderledy, was the twenty-third successor of Ignatius Loyola, and the first chief of the Jesuits who was ever in the United States. The founder of this celebrated religious order, who had been a soldier before he became a priest, gave, as is well known, a military cast to the institute. He called it the Company of Jesus; its superior was styled General; its members were to receive a training that should equal in thoroughness the discipline given to recruits for an army—for they were designed to the vanguard of the Church, ready for action at a moment's notice, equipped for every call, formed to be eager for the forefront of every spiritual combat, consecrated by vow to be as prompt to go at the bidding of the Pope to the jungles of Africa as to the courts of kings, and bound by their Rule to shun ecclesiastical dignities, such as bishoprics or cardinalates, in orders to work Ad majorem Dei gloriam anywhere, in any way, at any time, that opportunity for service should offer.

The man who now rules the Society, wrote the Catholic Home Almanac, just issued, is in every way a model member of it. Physically, he is strongly built and well proportioned. Intellectually, he is one of the masters of the order. Spiritually, he is distinguished for virtue, and is looked upon as a saint by all who know him intimately. He has, therefore, the sanctitas, sanitas, and scientia that mark the perfect Jesuit.

Father Anderledy is a Swiss. He was born in the hamlet of Barisal, in the Canton Wallis, on June 3, 1819. He made his elementary and classical studies in the Jesuits' College at Brieg, about nine miles from his home. After he was graduated he became a novice of the Society there on June 5, 1838. He made his first vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience at the end of two years spent in the novitiate, and passed another two years in the scholasticate at the college, reviewing his studies and giving special attention to rhetoric. Subsequently he was sent to Fribourg to teach and to be prefect of the German boys in the college there.

In 1844 he was ordered to Rome, where he studied philosophy and theology under the celebrated Father Passaglia and other famous professors. His health gave way and he returned to Fribourg. He remained there for a year until the Jesuits were driven out of that place; then he came to the United States, where, in St. Louis, Mo., he finished his theological studies and was ordained priest. After his ordination, Father Anderledy exercised the sacred ministry among German, French, Swiss, Bavarian, and Belgian Catholics in Missouri, Wisconsin, and other States of the West.

Towards the end of the year 1850, the young priest proceeded to Belgium to make his "third year" at Tronchiennes, near Ghent. This "third year" is called the masterpiece of Ignatius. After a Jesuit has been trained and tried in various capacities, has taken his vows and been ordained and has been at work in the Society for several years, he is sent to some quiet place—a novitiate or house of studies, usually—and there for a twelve-month he is put again into the fire of the religious life to be refined by prayer, by meditation, by mortification, by study of his priestly vocation and by a long "retreat," during which he passes through the spiritual exercises of Loyola that make the science of the saints almost as clear as mathematics. When he comes out he is a new man, with replenished fervor, increased consecration to the apostolate and intensified zeal for souls.

In 1851, Father Anderledy was at Baden, a member of a band of Jesuit missionaries, who traversed Germany, went through Westphalia, and preached missions throughout all that region, as far as the Russian-Prussian frontier. The college at Cologne welcomed him as its Vice-Rector in the year 1853. There he remained three years. There also he made his solemn profession of the four vows. He became Rector of the College at Paderborn in 1856, and three years later, he was appointed Provincial of the German Province. He held this high office for two terms and left the record of a splendid administration.

On December 8, 1856, he was made professor of moral theology at Maria-Laach, near Niedermendeg. In February, 1867, he was appointed Rector at Maria-Laach, and held that office until April 27, 1870, when he was summoned to Rome by the then General of the Society, the Very Rev. Father Beckx, to be Assistant for the German countries—Germany, Austria, Belgium, Holland and Galicia.

When the Jesuits were expelled from Rome by the Revolution in 1870, Father Anderledy accompanied Father Beckx to Fiesole, near Florence, where the present head quarters of the Society were then established Father Beckx, who was getting old and feeble, asked his fellow members of the Society to give him a coadjutor, and on September 24, 1883, Father Anderledy was elected the Vicar of the General, with the right of succession. Out of 70 votes he received 52 on the first ballot, and the others were so scattering that practically there was no opposition to him.

At first, Father Anderledy was only the General's lieutenant, but in May, 1384, Father Beckx gave over his whole charge to his Vicar and retired to Rome to prepare for death. He died on March 14, 1887. Then, at last, his successor assumed the title of General.

So humble was this man that the world rarely heard of him. Comparatively few persons, even among Catholics, knew his name. He sought no notoriety. He desired to be inconspicuous. At work from early dawn until late at night, he was promoting the coming of God's kingdom wherever the members of the Society are scattered. So the good work goes on, when one man falls another has been prepared to take his place; where one mission stops, another begins; when one country exiles the Jesuits they seek employment elsewhere; when one place is evangelized, they press onward to the next. And wherever they are, one heart at least follows their toils and their tribulations, rejoices in their joys and grieves for their sorrows, directs, stimulates, encourages, consoles and blesses them—the heart of their Father-General. Ignatius prayed that his Society should always be persecuted and he predicted that his prayers had been granted. So the Jesuits are suffering for justice' sake all the time. They expect this perennial persecution. They bear it without complaint. Everywhere they return good for evil; everywhere they live lives that are above reproach; everywhere they are fit to be, so far as men can be, companions of Jesus. And he who was their General was worthy of them, and of their founder.

CHAPOTEAUT'S MORRHUOL

THE CURATIVE ACTIVE PRINCIPLES EXTRACTED FROM COD LIVER OIL

NO TASTE OR SMELL

MORRHUOL is much more prompt in its action than Cod Liver Oil in the treatment of Consumption, Bronchitis, Coughs, Pains in the Chest, Sore Throats, and Asthma.

MORRHUOL restores the health of pale weakly people, without appetite, and those afflicted with Skin diseases, Scrofula, Scabs, sores in the ears, sore eyes, and inherited lymphatic temperaments

From The Hospital Reports (translated).

« MORRHUOL represents the medicinal « part of Cod Liver Oil, « modifies « rapidly the general state of the patient, and develops the appetite in a « most extraordinary manner. Consumptive patients experience a feeling of well-being, eat and digest « easily, and sleep soundly.

« D^r GAY, Gazette des Hôpitaux. »

From The Lancet March, 12th, 1887.

« M. CHAPOTEAUT has introduced a preparation of Cod Liver Oil called Morrhuol, which proves to be of considerable utility in the treatment of Consumption and wasting diseases. »

THE NEW FRUIT

ACTS on the LIVER.

Not only acts on the bowels, but the charm of its action is that from its invaluable great tonic properties, it at once gives tone and energy to the muscular coats of the stomach, gradually restoring to nature its long lost power. The New Fruit Stimulates the Liver, creating a natural action of the bowels and biliary secretions, &c.

Such diseases as Biliousness, Bad, Breath, Congested Liver, Dizziness, Flatulance, Piles, Indigestion, Headache, Lowness of Spirits, Neuralgia, &c., are well known to emanate from Constipation.
